Sun, Medicine, Fire
Forty Billions
Earth's Great Floods

HIPPOCRATES, Greek physician, dead about 2300 years ago, knew what some doctors don't know yet. He said: "What the sun does not heal, medicine heals; what medicine does not heal, fire heals." Hippocrates knew nothing about germs, but observation taught him that sunlight destroys disease and that intense heat burns it out.

A great Berlin surgeon, Dr. Bier, goes back to the old Greek fighting diseases with heat, applied to surgery. Cutting out cancer with heat and cauterization is said to be more effective than ordinary surgery, or use of radium, and to make possible operations where the knife cannot safely reach.

The French astronomer, Ammaryon, said to this writer, shortly before he died: "We are only on the threshold of knowledge, everything is within and beyond our sight." He had been talking of the forty thousand odd suns that had been counted in the Pleiades, which to Tennyson looked like a few fireflies "tangled in a silver braid." Large fireflies when you consider that some of them are more than ten million times the size of our earth.

War is very costly. The most recent big war, into which we injected ourselves, although it was not our war, cost forty billion dollars, at the lowest estimate. It cost in lost time, more crime and other ways, twice forty billions. But that sum, we actually spent. Let's hope we'll keep out of the next war.

The Los Angeles Examiner reminds you that for forty billions you could build fifteen great cities like Los Angeles. You could build two million miles of good roads, at $20,000 a mile. You could send 10,000,000 boys and girls through college at a cost of $4000 each, or build nearly 1000 school houses costing a million each, for every state in the Union.

We hesitated about the Panama Canal, "so terribly expensive." For the price of that war we could build 120 Panama Canals, do all the work this nation needs, canals to ocean and gulf from the lakes, irrigation, Colorado river, everything, and have billions left over.

AND PLEASE REMEMBER THIS. One of those forty billions, honestly and efficiently invested in aircraft and submarines, would make another war unnecessary, and the aircraft would pay their cost in peace, working for the postoffice, carrying express and passengers, keeping up a self-supporting army of fliers, ready to fight if necessary.

The bursting of a dam, a part of Los Angeles' water supply, in San Francisquito Canyon, cost several hundred lives. Reasons are given for the dam giving away, but no adequate excuse. "Water seeping into the earth at each end of the dam weakened the hold of the great concrete wall." It should be some one's business to learn why the dam was built that way —and what danger there is at other dams. Why fragments of broken concrete crumbled in the fingers.

Compared with similar disasters, by flood, California's accident is fortunately mild. There was the big flood that drowned all but Noah's family. The rainbow guarantees against a repetition of that wholesale calamity, but small floods have wrought havoc.

Five hundred years ago in Holland 100,000 were drowned, and at Kaifong, China, nearly

KNOWN DEATH TOLL 363 IN CALIFORNIA FLOOD

Los Angeles, March 15—An official estimate of the toll of human lives taken in the St. Francis dam collapse and flood disaster stood today at 363, based on the number of known dead and the list of those reported missing. Twelve bodies were recovered today.

How many others perished may never be known. Authorities declared the belief that a countless number of bodies were swept into the sea.

Scores are buried in the silt of mud and sand left in the path of the deluge that swept down Santa Clara and Santa Paula river valleys after the dam broke in San Francisquito canyon.

FLAMES ROUT FAMILY TWICE WITHIN AN HOUR

Twice within an hour Mr. and Mrs. Raymond B. Fuller, with their two children and a maid, were driven from their home at 16 Aberdeen st., Newton Highlands, today, by a fire of undetermined origin.

The first time the fire was apparently extinguished in 15 minutes and the family returned to bed, only to be driven out again 20 minutes later when the blaze sprang up with renewed vigor and worked all through the house.

Mr. Fuller discovered the fire the first time and arousing his wife and the maid, Katherine Hansley, called the fire department and escorted the family to the street, carrying Gretchen, 10 weeks and Shirley, [illegible] years.

STOCKS UP IN DRIVE ON SHORTS

New York, March 15 (AP)—Violent speculation for the advance was resumed in today's stock market. More than a score of specialties were marked up 3 to 8 points on a series of drives against the "short" interest in those issues. Rails assumed increasing prominence, with six issues in high ground for the year.

General Motors rushed up 7 points to a new peak at 164. Radio held fairly steady around yesterday's final price of 150 during the early part of the session then softened.

American Linseed, the spectacular performer yesterday, opened 3 points lower at 104, rallied to 110⅞ and then quieted down around 109.

United Drug was bid up 8 points, Houston Oil 7¼, General Railway Signal 7, Du Pont, Wright Aeronautical, Savage Arms, Mullins Body and U. S. Industrial Alcohol 6½ each, and Midland Steel Products preferred, American Sugar, International Nickel, International Telephone, Vanadium and National Tea 5 points or more.

Wabash was again the leader of the rail group, moving up 4 points to a new peak at 74. The St. Paul issues, St. Louis Southwestern, Lackawanna and New York Central also reached new high ground.

FAIL TO FIND TRACE OF HINCHLIFFE AND GIRL ON ISLAND IN MAINE

Old Orchard, Me., March 15—Hope that Capt. Walter G. R. Hinchliffe and the Hon. Elsie Mackay, lost at sea in their transatlantic monoplane Endeavour, might have landed safely rose today—and then fell again with a crash.

Coast Guards investigating report that an object apparently an airplane had been sighted on Stratton Island, two miles off Old Orchard Beach, returned to the Biddeford Pool station late today and declared there was no sign of a plane or a human on the island.

A noon-day sun, glinting on the windows of a cottage deserted in the winter, was assigned by the Coast Guards as probable reason for what apparently was an optical illusion.

Search of the island followed report by Miss Cynthia Page, 21, of Old Orchard, that she and others had seen the gold-tinted object on the island and that what appeared to be two persons had been seen walking.

The plane flown by Captain Hinchliffe and the titled English girl from outside London in an attempt to reach Philadelphia, had a black fuselage and gold-tinted wings.

At 3:30 this afternoon 60 hours had passed since the takeoff.

According to R. C. Page, father of the girl who first sighted the object, two persons were seen going from the supposed plane into a cottage on the island. He said:

"Cynthia had been watching all morning with the binoculars when

STATE PURCHASE PLAN GAINS ON 'EL' BILL VOTE

Purchase of the Boston Elevated Railway by the State, and creation of a metropolitan transit commission of five members with autocratic powers to supervise it, is provided in a draft of a bill submitted today to the legislative committee on street railways and metropolitan affairs by the faction of that committee favoring public ownership.

The bill as drafted gives the commission full control over wages and fares, together with authority to manage the company's operations itself or to hire a private corporation

Gleason Warns Boys of "Wrong Road"

Boy, if you are thinking of getting "some easy jack."

If you are running around with companions that invite you over the road that is rosey for a little while.

If you are about to make your first misstep, read this last letter from Herbert J. Gleason.

He was a good boy once, but he took the wrong road and paid the price. No sermon could be a stronger warning than his letter from the grave. Read it.

"My sad end may serve as a reminder to the youth of America that the way of the transgressor is hard.

That is the warning sounded by Herbert J. Gleason, the "Baby Face Bandit," in a letter written to his father just before he was put to death in the electric chair for the murder of James A. Monagle, a Medford butcher, in a Saturday night holdup.

The letter read:

My dear Dad:

Before I die I want you to know that I die happy. I have made a good preparation and am going to

ELSIE MACKAY PROBABLY DIED FACING GOAL SHE SOUGHT
As hour succeeds hour with no word of the monoplane Endeavor, experienced aviators fear that the Atlantic has claimed two more victims. While there is a chance that they may have been rescued by some craft without wireless, it is pointed out by navigators that few ships would be near the course the fliers took at this season. Capt. Walter Hinchliffe and his girl companion hopped in face of great odds.

she sighted a yellow object on the shore of Stratton Island.

"She called me and I looked at the object through the glasses.

"It was either a wrecked plane or a pile of floating lumber; we could not tell which.

"The object was not there yesterday.

"Later we saw what looked like two persons going from the object to an uninhabited cottage on the island.

"I canot positively identify the object as the Hinchliffe plane, although it was of golden hue according to the press dispatches.

NOTIFIED COAST GUARD.

"We notified the coastguard stations.

"We have been keeping a watch through the binoculars, but have not seen the two persons come out of the house on the island. The cottage was once the summer home of a Portland man, but in recent years has been unoccupied."

Marion C. Jordan, whose family owned the island at one time, scanned it with glasses at the request of a Portland Express reporter, from her home at Scarboro Beach. She declared she could barely discern two objects, apparently waving back and forth in the wind.

In her first description she said the "two bumps" she observed resembled a parachute. She said the objects were at least something she had never observed there before.

CAPT. JONES SKEPTICAL.

The report of a plane possibly being on the island was doubted by Capt. Harry Jones, commercial aviator at Old Orchard, and Charles Proventer, a fisherman.

Capt. Jones said he did not believe humans could be sighted on the island, even with glasses when the weather was clear. He attempted to take off in his plane for investigation of the island, but because of high tide could not get a sufficient run for takeoff.

The fisherman said he passed close to Stratton's in his powerboat early today and saw no object such as described on the mile-long stretch of rock and grass.

Until the report of the object on the island, hope had been virtually abandoned for the two fliers in the Stinson-Detroiter monoplane Endeavour.

FALSE REPORTS RUN DOWN

Early today reports that a plane had been heard last night over New Hampshire, over the Boston airport, over New Jersey and over several other points, served to buoy up hope, but when the reports did not materialize, this hope died.

At Menlo Park, N. J., it was reported that the drone of a motor was heard in the air and that the sound suddenly ceased, as if the plane had started down for a landing.

Today this report was exploded when local and state police at Menlo, together with newspapermen, failed to find any trace of a plane after a long, detailed search of the terrain.

The time limit under which Capt. Hinchliffe and Miss Mackay could have stayed aloft under normal conditions, expired at 5:40 a. m. today, and airmen expressed it as extremely doubtful if the full 50 hours could have been flown.

Aviators pointed out that adverse winds undoubtedly would have been encountered in the flight from east to west and that sleet storms probably would have been met with also, resulting in the monoplane's wings becoming ice-coated and weighed down.

Hinchliffe Opposed to Taking Woman on Ocean Hops

Cranwell, Eng., March 15 (AP)—Down in his heart, Capt. Walter G. R. Hinchliffe, pilot of the missing plane Endeavor, has always felt that exposing women to the dangers of a transatlantic flight was not the right thing to do.

On this account he nearly had a falling out with Charles A. Levine last fall when Mabel Boll came from Paris and got Levine's consent to accompany Hinchliffe and Levine on a transatlantic flight. Hinchliffe said no positively then.

'DRYS' WIN ON REFERENDUM

The drys won a victory in Massachusetts today.

According to a Supreme Court decision, read in the House of Representatives, the initiative petition filed by the Constitutional Liberty League for repeal of the 18th Amendment, cannot be submitted to the voters next November.

The question was sent to the Supreme Court for a ruling by the legislative committee on legal affairs. The committee held that under the initiative and referendum, matters to be referred to the voters must be either laws or measures.

The court sustained this iew, concluding with the statement:

"We therefore are of the opinion that the matter in which the reference was made in question is neither a law nor a measure within the meaning of the provision as to the initiative in Article 48 of the Amendments to the Constitution."

ENGINEER SAW PLANE AT NIGHT

Montreal, Que., March 15 (INS)—Engineer Stanley, of the Canadian National Railway, reported to Supt. McKee at St. John, New Brunswick, that he sighted a plane near Anagemce, New Brunswick, at 1:30 a. m. today, said a dispatch received here from St. John.

The plane was flying very low as though seeking a landing place. The engineer could not see the markings he said, but he believed it answered the description of Hinchliffe's monoplane. An investigation is being made.

New York, March 15 (INS)—An unconfirmed report which early today reached John Gillespie, American agent for Captain Walter R. Hinchliffe, stated that an airplane resembling the golden-winged monoplane in which the British ace and the Hon. Elsie MacKay started their attempted transatlantic flight had been forced down near St. John's, Newfoundland.

St. Albans, Vt., March 15 (AP)—An airplane over this city late last night was heard by a number of citizens and Dr. Allen McCormick, a prominent physician, says he saw the plane circling the city as if looking for a landing field about 10:30 last night. The plane came from the east, circled the town a number of times and then headed westward over Lake Champlain.

St. John's N. F., March 15 (INS)—A message from Bruin this afternoon reported that four men there claim to have heard an airplane pass overhead at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

Find Loot, Hold Suspert

Osterville, March 15 (INS)—With the arrest of Arnold Lyons of New Brunswick, and the finding of nearly $2500 worth of loot, local police believed today the mystery of the robberies in many wealthy summer homes hereabouts has been explained.

Life of Elsie Mackay Full of Adventure

London, March 15 (AP)—The attempt of the Hon. Elsie Mackay to fly the Atlantic with Capt. Walter Hinchliffe stirred recollections today of her adventurous career.

Since childhood the 35-year-old daughter of the noted shipowner, Lord Inchcape, led an active life. She was a good rider and a keen follower of the fox hounds, showing complete fearlessness in the hunting field.

Miss Mackay was an indefatigable dancer. Her love for the theater, when she was quite young, led her to become an actress on both the stage and in the motion pictures. When she was still in her twenties she was leading lady in "Grumpy" with Cyril Maude, under the name of Poppy Wyndham. At that time she was married to the actor, Capt. Dennis Wyndham. She had met him while nursing in her mother's hospital during the war. The marriage was subsequently annulled and she resumed her maiden name.

The stage did not suffice to satisfy her astounding energy, which friends liken to that of a hustling man, and she took up flying. She was a pupil of Sir Alan Cobham, Britain's aerial taximan, and she soon became proficient in the handling of planes, and got a flying certificate in 1922. One of the tests for this was a solo ascent to 5,000 feet. She bought the machine in which she passed the tests. Since then she had been an enthusiastic aviator, frequently making trips by plane to Paris, Scotland and other points.

She also took a close interest in her father's business and was reputed to know as much about shipping as Lord Inchcape. Friends claim that she was her father's right-hand "man."

She had an office in his London house, where she dealt with many matters connected with his ships and from which she hurried to the docks whenever one of the ships entered port. She would overlook its fittings and decorations and advise what repairs were to be made. Her father was stated to rely willingly upon her taste and ability in these matters.

Lord Inchcape was very proud of his clever daughter and she was said to adore him, but not without some awe. Because of this she kept her flight plans secret. Being of a fearless and sanguine disposition, it was believed that she looked forward to being able to cable him from America: "Am here. Flew across with Hinchliffe." She felt sure he would be proud of her achievement when he learned she was safe.

Lord and Lady Inchcape at present are in Egypt.

Mrs. Hinchliffe Pale and Weary From Long Vigil

London, March 15 (INS)—Pale and weary after a 24-hour vigil awaiting news of her husband, Mrs. Walter Hinchliffe was hopeful today her husband had successfully crossed the Atlantic and landed in some isolated spot which has prevented him from communicating with her.

"Mrs. Hinchliffe is quite calm although naturally anxious," a friend said. All reports, no matter how vague, were telephoned immediately to the Hinchliffe home.

FULLER SEEKS LAW FOR "PREFERENCE" PRIMARY

Governor Fuller, in his first special message to the Legislature, today asked for legislation that would give the voter opportunity to express preference for President at the primaries. "The rank and file of political parties have little or no part in selection of party candidates for the presidency," he said. "For the selection is made for them by delegates. They have part, indirectly, only to such an extent as the voters for the delegates may perchance reflect their preference. Legislation to provide such would be in accord with the principle of a public opinion act which has obtained in Massachusetts for many years."

to conduct the management for a reasonable yearly fee.

In a test vote on state purchase in the committee, following submission of this bill, the vote was 13 in favor, 14 opposed, 2 absent.

An analysis of the vote showed, according to legislators, that public ownership was gaining ground. Senator Charles Warren of Arlington, hitherto a public control stalwart, cast his vote for public ownership instead.

It was pointed out that, while there were 14 votes against public ownership today, these members were in reality split between public control and private ownership on an 8 and 6 basis, so that the members favoring public ownership were actually far more numerous now than any other group.

Asked why he changed to support of public ownership, Senator Warren said:

"I am convinced a public control bill acceptable to the present owners of the road cannot be drafted. I was always firmly opposed to returning the road to private ownership because of the valuable option to purchase which is in the 1918 control act."

ADJOURN TO MONDAY.

Following today's vote, the committee, which had met in executive session, adjourned until Monday. At the State House it is generally believed the public ownership adherents have a good chance of increasing their number by that time.

Deficits could not be assessed against cities and towns under the provisions of the bill.

No extensions could be made without legislative act, but the commission would be authorized to purchase the Chelsea and Revere division of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway and to begin construction at once on Route 1 of the Harriman plan—the route that would link East Boston, the downtown district and the South End and Back Bay districts by a rapid transit line.

The metropolitan transit commissioners would be appointed by the Governor with confirmation by the executive council, their terms to be in the first case, two, four, six, eight and ten years and thereafter ten years each with one new appointment every two years.

The chairman would be elected by the commission and not named by the Governor. Salaries, $6000 for the chairman, $5000 for each of the other four members. The members would be removable by the Governor and council for cause.

The commission would have power to make contracts and issue State bonds on behalf of the metropolitan district of 12 cities and towns.

SET UP RESERVE FUND.

Employes of the Elevated would be under full control of the commission, not under civil service.

Out of the surplus a reserve fund would be set aside to liquidate indebtedness. In case of a deficit, the commissioners could draw upon this fund. The annual income is estimated at $35,000,000.

If the reserve fund falls below $1,000,000, the commission would be empowered to readjust fares to provide sufficient income.

If the reserve fund exceeds $2,000,000, the commissioners would have to reimburse State for any debts incurred.

Should the state take over the Elevated, the purchase price, as determined in the 1918 act would be about $109,000,000, or $106,000,000 with current assets out. The average payment for stock would be about $111.

Gov. Fuller made it plain today that he would not interfere with elevated affairs in the Legislature until a bill in some form is presented to him, although he indicated again, as he has repeatedly in the past, that he intends to keep the Legislature in session until the problem is solved.

MEANEST THIEF VICTIM

BLIND PIANIST LOSES PURSE

KILLED ABOARD SHIP WHEN HIT BY PIECE OF COAL

David Erickson, 42, of Newport News, Va., was instantly killed today in the hold of the coal barge Eastern Crown at Metropolitan wharf, Chelsea, when a 25-pound lump of coal fell 40 feet and landed on his head. Erickson, a member of the barge crew, was loading coal buckets in the hold.

BLIND REVERE GIRL ROBBED OF PURSE

The meanest thief bobbed up again today, this time in Revere.

The victim was Miss Juliette Perralla, blind manager of the Revere Music Show, 289 Broadway, opposite the Revere City Hall.

Miss Perralla, who is a skilled pianist and singer, left her shop for a few minutes to get a cup of coffee next door. On her return she found that her pocketbook, containing $3, which had been hidden under a counter, was missing.

The pocketbook contained also trolley tickets, three keys and a gold watch presented by her mother. This watch had no crystal and the face was notched in a certain way so that Miss Perralla could tell time with her fingers.

She went to the police station to report her loss, and found that an officer had picked up the empty pocketbook on Broadway, near the music store.

SAYS CHELSEA COPS LOAF IN SPEAKEASY

Testimony of prohibition sleuths before United States Commissioner E. C. Jenney, in federal court today, revealed a cellar "speakeasy" on Addison st., Chelsea, as the rendezvous of the local police.

Abraham Levine, alleged proprietor of the basement, bar, raided yesterday by federal agents, pleaded not guilty to a complaint charging him with sale of liquor and was released in $500 bail for hearing later.

Thomas De Angelo, one of the raiding squad, told Commissioner Jenney, when Levine appeared in court today, that a Chelsea traffic officer, whose name and description is known to prohibition headquarters, was one of a merry group in the cellar cafe a few days ago when De Angelo mingled with the customers to get evidence against the owner.

POSED AS LABORER

The federal sleuth, according to his testimony, disguised himself as a laborer and won the confidence of Levine as a prospective tenant of a nearby tenement, thereafter to be treated to drinks on the house in the bar in the basement.

Describing the premises, De Angelo testified it was furnished after the manner of the best metropolitan night clubs, and was conspicuously adorned with a large photograph of Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley.

Hung opposite to that of the Chelsea mayor, De Angelo continued, there was a photograph of one of the city's best know bootleggers, and between the two a champagne bottle of extinguishing the flames, which broke out in the pantry of the single family house, the children were put to bed and the others also retired. The blaze had been confined to the pantry.

Before they had dropped off to sleep the house filled with smoke again and another exodus to the street was made. This time the firemen found that the flames had worked up through the partitions to the roof and an hour's battle was required to extinguish them. The loss was estimated at $7000. The house is owned by Gertrude T. Webber of Highland st., Northfield.

U. S. COLLECTS BILLION TODAY

Washington, March 15 (INS)—Uncle Sam is collecting over a billion dollars today in income taxes, proceeds of two bond issues, customs and from miscellaneous sources.

The day's expenditures at the Treasury Department amounted to over $655,000,000. Securities amounting to $560,000,000 were retired. Interest payments exceeded $23,000,000. Ordinary government overhead was about $10,000,000.

The March income tax collection was estimated at approximately $475,000,000, as compared to $516,000,000 in March, 1927. Today's return indicates a total tax collection for the year of something over $2,159,000,000.

Lindy Offers Rides in Airplane to Congressmen

Washington, March 15 (INS)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh offered today to give airplane rides to all members of Congress who desire to take them.

The invitations were extended verbally while the Flying Colonel was at the Capital discussing the extension of air mail service into Latin America. Both Vice-President Dawes and Speaker Longworth told Lindbergh they thought many members would accept.

HERO OF WRECK GIVES PRAISE TO OTHERS

A hero modestly shed his mantle today and slipped it over the shoulders of those he claims were braver than he.

In a letter to the Boston Evening American, Alden A. Proctor, member of the crew of the Manomet Point Coast Guard station that went to the rescue of passengers aboard the Boston-New York liner Robert E. Lee, spoke his grief for his three dead companions and asked recognition for others engaged in the heroic work.

Proctor's letter, written from Manomet, speaks for itself, and here it is:

"Here I am back home again after a wild experience which will never be forgotten by myself and many others.

NOT ONLY HEROES.

"We have been receiving much praise, which was probably due us more or less, but I wish to let the world know through your paper that we,' the crew of the Manomet Point station, were not the only heroes of the day.

"Those boys who so gallantly risked their lives in those two little leaky skiffs which put out from shore without a ghost of a show—and not even so much as a lifeboat for protection—were real heroes if ever there was a hero.

"Those boys deserve a medal if ever anybody deserved one, and it sure would make me happy if I could have the honor of pinning a medal on each and every one of them, for I know them all and love all for the wonderful deed they performed.

PRAISES PAULDING CREW.

"I also wish to express my gratitude toward Ensign Dav and the crew of the Paulding who worked a hard to save us boys who were on board. How they worked over Stark no one can ever know except those of us who were there and could see. But, unfortunately, Stark was called to the Great Beyond along with Griswold and Cashman, who willingly gave their lives to protect the lives of others, a love which only God can understand.

"I also wish to call attention to Ernest C. Douglass who volunteered to go with us on our eventful journey. Surely he deserves a medal, too. He is at his home now, but like the rest of us is unable to work on account of his legs, which are paralyzed from the cold.

"He unselfishly offered his services in order that others might live.

"Well, I am going to the funeral of my pal, Mr. Griswold, so must close."

ADDITIONS TO FUND

In the same mail with Proctor's letter today came checks for $20 and $10, to be added to the fund for relatives of the dead Coast Guards, which fund was started with a check for $1000 from Nathan Straus of New York.

The $20 check was sent by Dr. William Appleton of 74 Beacon st., and the $10 check was from Dick Dellheim of 44 Bromfield st.

This fund is still open and contributions will be received by the Boston Evening American. It is a worthy fund, for the wages of the Coast Guards figured largely in their families. Send your contribution to the Hero Fund, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq.

was affixed to the wall as an added decoration.

De Angelo testified he removed the bootlegger's photograph for future reference, but allowed Mayor Quigley's to remain.

Further testimony of De Angelo disclosed that to allay suspicion of his repeated visits to the cellar club he had on one occasion taken his wife with him to inspect the vacant tenement owned by Levine and it was on that occasion he met the Chelsea officer when invited downstairs to have a drink with the proprietor.

PRIVATE RESORT.

Levine, without counsel, testified in self-defense that the cellar is only a private "den" where he keeps liquor for his own use and where he occasionally entertains convivial neighbors on stormy winter nights.

He denied that he had ever made a sale of liquor to De Angelo, but admitted that the federal agent had left $2 on a cafe table two days ago after being "presented" with a pint of liquor.

Investigation of the Addison st. "speakeasy," De Angelo declared, was begun by him following complaints to prohibition headquarters that Chelsea police officers, with others, were frequenting the place to purchase liquor.

MEXICO SEIZES U. S. CITIZEN; PRIEST SHOT

Mexico City, March 15 (AP)—Arrest of an American and execution of six natives, including a priest, caused attention to be centered on the Government's continuing efforts to suppress the insurgent movement.

A dispatch from Guadalajara to Excelsior says that Alonzo L. Taylor, owner of the San Felipe Hijarr ranch in the State of Jalisco, was arrested by military authorities of Guadalajara, where he has been residing recently.

The arrest was made upon the request of authorities of Ahuacatlan, State of Nayarit. They charged Taylor was aiding rebels in that state. He was cited to the attorney-general for investigation.

PRIEST AND 5 EXECUTED

Donaciano Villarreal, Roman Catholic priest, and five civilians were executed at El Saucito cemetery military authorities at San Luis Potosi announced.

The men were found guilty by a summary court-martial of seditious activities on Monday. The trial lasted several hours and at its conclusion the condemned men were placed in automobiles and driven direct to the cemetery.

They were backed against a wall. The execution squad fired and four men fell. The squad fired a second volley, dropping the other two. The coup de grace was then given each one.

Newspaper dispatches said that while the firing squad made ready its rifles, the commanding officer asked the condemned men to express any last wish.

SHOT AS THEY KNEEL.

The priest said he only desired to state that he died without remorse. As he said this he knelt. All except Grimaldo followed his example.

"We are dying like men," said Grimaldo kith his back to the wall, facing the executioners.

Dispatches from Guadalajara today said 39 insurgents, one federal officer and seven soldiers were killed and two army officers fatally wounded in two battles on Monday. Numerous insurgents and 15 soldiers were slightly wounded. At Palmitos the rebels were commanded by Manuel Pedroza and Enrique Gorostieta, former federal general, who was chief of staff to Victoriano Huerta.

The Catholic priest Osorio Leyva, recently arrested and charged with plotting against the life of President Calles and former President Obregon was released under instructions of Gen. Roberto Cruz, chief of police of Mexico City.

Four priests captured by military authorities in the state of Jalisco and charged with seditious activities, being brought to Mexico City for investigation, were also released.

It's Never Too Foggy in Dear Ol' London for Visiting King

London, March 15 (INS)—King Amanullah of Afghanistan, who is the guest of King George, is delighted with London fog. He said he had long wished to be in a thick London fog. He got his wish today.

The king frequently disregards the official interpreter and talks with British notables through sign language. He cannot speak English.

WILL DEPORT KAISER'S KIN

Cologne, Germany, March 15 (INS)—The district commissioner today ordered Alexander Zoubkoff, brother-in-law of the former Kaiser, expelled from Germany because of his failure to renew his passport. Zoubkoff is a Russian emigre.

Zoubkoff, who is 27 years old, was married in November to the ex-Kaiser's 62-year-old sister, Princess Victoria zu Schaumburglippe. He has figured in numerous escapades in Bonn and Berlin since his marriage. Following a dance-hall brawl in Berlin recent it was reported the princess contemplated a divorce, but she denied it.

600 SNOWED-IN FOLK PIN HOPE ON AIRPLANE

Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, Mich., March 15 (INS)—A government transport plane hopped off here today for the snowbound upper peninsula to deliver food and medicine to the marooned villages of Detour and Raber, Mich. Two persons are critically ill there and hundreds are facing the threat of hunger.

Hopes of the villagers are pinned on the fliers. A snow-mobile, carrying 1000 pounds of supplies, was lost today in a severe blizzard on the 60-mile stretch south of Sault Ste. Marie.

Sault Ste Marie, Mich., March 15 (AP)—With the menacing blizzard abated, a searching party set out today to look for a "snowmobile" expedition, believed lost or stalled after leaving here yesterday with food and medicine for a 60-mile run to the snowbound village of Detour.

Meanwhile, a dog sled expedition, also halted by the fury of the storm, resumed its race for Detour and Raber, carrying food and medicine for two persons reported critically ill.

RAYMOND'S showed a gain in February of almost 43% over February, 1927--42 4/8 % to be exact, and there was nuth'n out of the ordinary in February, nuther, only an extra day. In January our gain was 102% but we had the Big Clothing Stock which would prevent a fair comparison.

And about the BIG CLOTHING STOCK—the Biggest ever moved and handled anywhere so far as we know, and all disposed of with one AD, and a picture next morning showing the crowd—that's all. Perhaps if the writer had had less Hayseed in his hair and was up to snuff on Modern Efficiency Methods, it might have been advertised for a couple of months, and plenty of other goods mixed in. Not One Piece of Our Regular Men's Clothing was to be had while this disposal was in progress. DAMPHOOLSAWMILL-METHODS—that's one of the causes of our big gain in February.

A Few weeks ago we advertised "Glass Stem Ware for 10c each," and over 26,000 Pieces were lugged off. A very reputable store advertised the same goods at almost double our price—and yet we made a profit, possibly as much NET profit as the other. Modern Efficiency, packing, shipping, delivery, bad charge accounts, high-salaried wallflowers, Small Volume on account of high mark-up and other wasteful, useless performances USED UP THE DIFFERENCE—which you got.

Everything in RAYMOND'S is picked out, taken to the cash desk, paid for, wrapped up and lugged off—that ends the whole transaction. Simple enuff, ain't it? There's sum difference 'tween an expense of 18 to 20% and 30 to 35%—which you get.

Pay Cash and Look Yourself in the Face

WHAT ABOUT CHARGE ACCOUNTS---EXTENDED TORTURE- DELAYED AGONY or whatever name you give it? Charge accounts simply for convenience is one thing—BUT Borrowing Goods (you don't own them however much you think you do) is quite another, the merchant is simply in the loan business and must collect not only the usual money rates but for losses sustained through unpaid loans, cost of collection, extra bookkeeping expenses, etc., ALL OF WHICH YOU MUST PAY. Figgeritout.

NOBUDDY OWES RAYMOND'S

SEEK READING 'PROOF' FROM DECIMO CLUB

The Reading investigating committee of the House of Representatives today requested, and in return was promised, the "proof" of charges made against the Massachusetts Attorney-General by Hugh Monjar of New York, former head of the Decimo Club.

The request was made of Monjar's attorney by telephone by Chairman George S. James of the committee and a conference was arranged for Monday morning in New York when, according to the attorney, "proof" will be handed to the chairman.

The Decimo Club charges by Monjar caused the investigation in the Legislature, although the investigation will be broadened to consider other matters involving Attorney-General Reading's conduct in office.

Monjar's attorney, Benjamin A. Hartstein, charged in Supreme Court in New York that Reading accepted $50,000 for legal services to the club and then threatened Monjar with prosecution in Massachusetts unless he retired as president and handed over to a trustee stock which was Monjar's personal property.

total of nearly four score witnesses for its three-day sitting here.

West was a close associate of the late Fred Upham, treasurer of the Republican national committee in 1918 to 1924, who handled $60,000 of the $260,000 of Liberty bonds which Harry F. Sinclair handed to Will H. Hays late in 1923 to help wipe out the Republican party deficit in advance of the 1924 campaign.

Chairman Nye will question West as to whether he had any talk with Upham concerning the disposition of the Sinclair bonds, some of which are known to have been parceled out to Senator T. Coleman du Pont of Delaware and the late John W. Weeks of Boston, former Secretary of War, and the late John T. Pratt of New York.

An examination of the Republican party records given to the Teapot Dome committee at Washington by William V. Hodges of Denver, present treasurer of the Republican national committee, shows that in 1924 the Cook County Republican committee made a gift of $25,000 to the national Republican organization. The Senate investigators want to know whether the Cook County committee handled any of the Sinclair bonds and made its contribution in cash.

Edward Hines, wealthy lumber dealer, was the first Chicago witness. He said he had contributed to the Republican national campaign fund from 1920 to 1924.

He knew nothing of the oil bonds, he said.

Appearing for William Wrigley Jr., who is with his Chicago National League team in California, William H. Stanley testified Wrigley gave $26,000 to the Republican national committee in September and October of 1920. There were two checks, one for $1000 and the other for $25,000.

Stanley said that in 1922, Wrigley gave $20,000 to the Republican national organization, but declared that in 1923, the year Hays got $260,000 in bonds from Sinclair, he made no contribution.

"Does Mr. Wrigley confine his contributions to one party?" Nye asked.

"I think not," was the reply.

"Do you know whether Mr. Wrigley was reimbursed for any contributions he made to the Republican party?"

"No, sir."

Weeks' Friends May Tell of G. O. P. Oil Bonds Fund

In political and financial circles today Bostonians were speculating on the possibility of prominent Bay Staters being summoned to Washington to testify before the Senate Teapot Dome investigating committee regarding the affairs of the late John W. Weeks.

Liberty bonds aggregating $26,000 are supposed to have been passed from Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate, to Will H. Hays, former chairman of the Republican national committee, and then to Weeks who was Senator for Massachusetts, Secretary of War and Republican national committeeman from Massachusetts.

According to discussion of the matter here, one or more of the executors of Weeks' $1,221,507 estate may be called to tell of the ultimate disposal of the bonds, if it is within their knowledge.

The executors are Henry Hornblower, prominent financial leader; Daniel G. Wing, chairman of the board of the First National Bank of Boston, and Mrs. Martha S. Weeks, widow of the Secretary of War. The Sinclair Weeks, war veteran son of Secretary Weeks, is another who might have knowledge of his father's affairs, it was said, while from a political point of view there was Congressman Frank Foss of Fitchburg, who in 1923 was chairman of the Republican state committee.

Republicans Send Cash to Borah to Repay Sinclair

Washington, March 15 (AP)—Donations of about $5500 intended to be used in refunding sums the Republican National Committee received from Harry F. Sinclair have been received by Senator Borah.

He announced this today after a conference with President Coolidge. Borah said he will attempt to raise the $160,000 and repay Sinclair if the Republican National Committee declines to act.

The Idaho Senator recently wrote William M. Butler, chairman of the committee, suggesting that the Sinclair donation be returned. But he replied that, in his opinion, any restitution of these funds devolved upon those who accepted them.

WOMAN STRAYS WITH $10,000 BANKBOOKS

Physicians at the City Hospital hope that a 65-year-old woman found wandering on the Common though she had $125 in cash and bankbooks showing deposits of more than $10,000 on her person, may clear the mystery surrounding her identity today.

"Nellie Costello"

The woman could not tell her name or anything about herself when she was discovered walking about the Common by the police of the Lagrange st. division, but the bankbooks showed the deposits in favor of Nellie Costello.

The woman appears to be about 65 years old and was poorly dressed.

FATHER AND TWO SONS ACCUSED BY OWN KIN

Thomas F. Coffey, Sr., deposed City Hall elevator starter and figure in city politics of a few years ago, appeared in Roxbury Court today with his sons, Joseph C. Coffey of Havre st., and James S. Coffey of Bennington st., both of East Boston, to defend themselves against another son, Thomas F. Coffey, Jr., who accused the father of threatening bodily harm. The brothers were charged with breaking and entering Junior's home, Bowker st., Roxbury, three days ago.

The three were arraigned, pleaded not guilty and were allowed to go on their own recognizance for hearing March 23, and admonished to keep away from the Bowker st. address.

HELD ON LIQUOR CHARGE AFTER MAN DROPS DEAD

Northampton, March 15 (AP)—Daniel A. Fennessey, alleged vendor of poisonous liquor, was committed to jail today in default of $20,000 bail when he pleaded not guilty to manslaughter in connection with the death of Samuel W. Coates of this city. Coates died last night. The police said that an hour before his death he had been drinking in Fennessey's tobacco shop. Fennessey's place was raided and a small quantity of liquor was seized. This has been sent to the state chemist at Boston for analysis.

WIDOW IN BALM SUIT TELLS OF BEING WOOED

Manchester, N. H., March 15 — Stuart A. Benway, 54, widower, who is suing a young Derry widow for $10,000 heart balm, "never visited the graves of his two former wives, was continually talking money and wrote letters about a wonderful athletic girl of 14," according to the widow.

She took the stand in Superior Court today. Before a jury of middle-aged men, Mrs. Doris S. Emerson declared "Benway was continually talking about my property, was suggesting that I sell this and buy that."

Mrs. Emerson testified that one reason for her decision not to marry Benway was his allusion to "a wonderful athletic girl of 14." Mrs. Emerson is slight of build and a blonde.

It was on the quest of a coat that Benway and Mrs. Emerson visited stores in Boston one day in the winter of 1926.

Mrs. Emerson, who had seemed doubtful about the nature of her affection for Benway, was asked if she meant what she wrote in a letter begging "Dearest, Darling Ben," and in which she said "I return your 10 x's," and closing with the words "to my dearest Ben in the world."

Parts of this letter were read by the attorney for Benway.

"At that time I hardly knew what I did mean," she said.

"He never gave me any pearls," Mrs. Emerson testified. "I received a string of pearls from Mr. Benway's daughter. He did not pay for them. I saw a string that seemed an exact duplicate of them in Barton's store for 59 cents."

Mrs. Emerson related on the history of her friendship with Benway. She declared he had been a friend of her husband, who died October 3, 1926. That when the Boston & Maine terminated the lease held by Mr. Emerson on land occupied by a cement garage, near the railroad station, Benway had taken over the lease, but that no money has passed.

Grand Mere, Que., March 15 (AP)—Floyd Bennett and his four assistants hopped off at 12:30 p. m. today in the airplane which is to be used by Commander Byrd on his South Pole expedition. Their destination was understood to be St. Albans, Vt. Tests were held in the snow here, the plane being equipped with skis.

DEAD SLAYER'S LETTER WARNS OTHER BOYS

God to be happy with Him for eternity

Help and console mother, Anna and Joseph, and assure them each and all that in Heaven I will daily pray for you all.

My sad end may serve as a reminder to the youth of America that the way of the transgressor is hard.

Father Murphy will give me communion just before the end and will be with me reading prayers when I die.

I am brave and perfectly reconciled. God bless and direct you all. Lovingly,

HERBERT.

"My boy was as penitent as he was brave," said Herbert's father, Joseph Gleason, a Spanish and World War veteran, as he tenderly folded the letter and returned it to its envelope.

"I wouldn't take gold for that little farewell message," added Gleason. "It's like hearing Herbert speak, to read it. I've read and reread it."

Before a throng which filled the Church of the Blessed Sacrament in Jamaica Plain, a solemn requiem high mass was celebrated today for Gleason.

The Rev. John F. Madden was celebrant of the mass, the Rev. T. N. Flaherty deacon and the Rev. Thomas Meredith sub-deacon. Music was furnished by the sanctuary choir.

The gathering, nine out of ten of whom were women, filled every seat in the church and stood three deep in the rear.

Burial was in Calvary Cemetery, Dorchester.

DOGS BITE TWO CHILDREN IN CHELSEA AND REVERE

Two children were bitten by dogs today in Chelsea and Revere, making the eighth child to be wounded in this way in the beach city. Helen Esain, eight, of 16 Bradstreet ave., Revere, was knocked down near her home by a shepherd dog and bitten on the left leg. Her screams drove the dog away and neighbors went to her rescue. She was treated by Dr. William Dorfman.

In Chelsea Russell Plummer, 14, of 41 Summer st., Chelsea, was bitten on the right thumb at Third and Cherry sts. by a Boston terrier. The boy was taken to the Chelsea Memorial Hospital for treatment. He told the police the dog bit his thumb when he tried to thrust the animal away when it leaped at him.

FAVOR ACCEPTANCE OF LODGE MEMORIAL

A resolve in favor of the acceptanace of the offer of Mrs. C. C. Williams, daughter of the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, to place a bas-relief portrait of the senator in the State House, was today reported by the legislative committee on state administration. The gift would be subject to the approval of the state art commission.

Fingerprint Bureau Change

A resolve calling for the creation of a commission to investigate the proposal of the Attorney-General, to transfer the fingerprint identification bureau from the Department of Correction to the Department of Public Safety, was today reported by the legislative committee on State administration.

DISEASE EPIDEMICS THREATEN SURVIVORS OF DISASTER

Another menace, that of pestilence, stalks through the devastated region, and precautions are being taken against epidemics of typhoid, measles and other diseases.

OVER 1000 HOMELESS

Thousands of persons including refugees from the devastated area, are being inoculated to prevent such dire consequences of the flood.

Estimates of the number of homeless persons in the flood area are as varied as the figures on the death toll, the highest guesses being "more than 1000."

Hundreds of houses were destroyed. Many buildings were moved, but not demolished.

At Piru, Santa Paula Fillmore and other little towns in the Santa Clara river valley there were many structures that had been moved for a considerable distance. Others needed but a touch of the carpenter's hammer here and there.

Seven separate inquiries were under way today to fix the blame for the bursting of the huge concrete dam that caused loss of lives and swept millions of dollars of property away.

Probably the most far-reaching inquiry of the seven investigations under way is the one begun by Coroner Nance, who announced he would engage engineers and geologists to gather expert testimony to fix the responsibility of the heavy loss of life in the disaster.

WILL ORDER ARRESTS

Arrests would be demanded, Nance said, if anyone should be found guilty of criminal negligence.

Personally supervised by Chief Engineer William Mulholland, builder of the dam, the investigation by the Los Angeles bureau of power and light also has employed the services of a trio of noted geologists to determine the cause of the break.

Authorities of Ventura County, whose boundaries were swept by the flood, have instituted a separate inquiry, while independent investigations were ordered by State Engineer Edward Hyatt and the state railroad commission.

Another investigation by the city of Los Angeles was launched when the City Council took steps to obtain the services of Ellwood Mead, chief of the reclamation service of the United States Department of the Interior, as chairman of a committee of engineers, recommended by the American Society of Engineers, with headquarters in New York, to probe the cause of the dam break.

TO PAY FOR FUNERALS

A seventh inquiry is being conducted by City Attorney Jess E. Stephens, who is investigating the legal aspects of the situation.

While many flood sufferers were demanding reparations, Mayor Geo. E. Cryer gave the first assurance that Los Angeles would render all of the financial aid possible in announcing the city will pay for the funerals of the recovered dead.

Searchers for bodies today were baffled by treacherous quicksands in the Santa Clara river bottom, which are believed to have claimed many victims.

While one army of workers searched for dead, another fought off the danger of pestilence.

Riflemen scoured the country to shoot scavengers and a corps of sanitary workers, armed with sprays, followed to spread disinfectants over carcasses of dead animals.

Conflicting reports of the fate of Aviators Bert O. Haugh and C. W. English, who took off in an airplane from Cloverfield Tuesday to soar over the flood area, caused friends here to express fear for their safety.

A report from Newhall said the two fliers had made a forced landing between Lancaster and the ridge route, and were uninjured. Later reports said they had not been heard from.

U. S. Orders All Its Dams, Reservoirs, Inspected

Washington, March 15 (AP)—Heeding the St. Francis Dam disaster, Secretary Work today ordered an inspection of all reservoirs and dams operated under the reclamation bureau.

Vermont Man Among Dead; Body Recovered

Barre, Vt., March 15 (AP)—John J. Kingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kingston of this city, was one of the victims of the California flood. His parents received a telegram today saying his body had been recovered and wired a request to have it sent here. He was born in Northfield, Vt., was a veteran of the World War and he was employed as a foreman by the Southern California Edison Company. Besides his parents he leaves two brothers and four sisters.

Los Angeles Official Says Landslide Wrecked Dam

Los Angeles, March 15 (AP)—William Mulholland, chief engineer of the Los Angeles Bureau of Water and Power, after a thorough inspection of the scene of the St. Francis dam collapse, declared his belief that a series of landslides above the dam caused the catastrophe.

"Something terrific happened to break that huge mass of concrete into bits," Mulholland said.

Water and power bureau engineers reported they found evidences of three slides above the dam that poured the earth into the lake suddenly raising its level and finally forcing the gigantic buttress to collapse.

Jess H. Stevens, city attorney, said:

"If after a complete investigation, it appears the city is liable for damages, the situation will be met in a fair manner, having in mind both the interests of the people who have been visited with this calamity and the taxpayers of Los Angeles."

Officials of the Los Angeles water and power bureau reiterated that, despite the emptying of the St. Francis reservoir, the city's supply of water would be adequate.

FILE APPEAL FOR TWO IN PEABODY SLAYING

Salem, March 15 (AP)—Claims of appeals in behalf of James Kamanis and George Metaxatos, convicted of murder in the second degree for the death of Hassan Abrams, Peabody storekeeper, were filed today in the State Supreme Court in Boston. Their attorneys, M. J. Reardon and William H. Fay, said they took this step as a precautionary measure in the event that a plea for a new trial should be denied by the Supreme Court.

MAYOR IS FOUND PERFECT IN LUNG TEST

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols today gave a practical demonstration of his interest in the campaign being conducted by the Massachusetts Tuberculosis League, Inc., for early diagnosis of pulmonary troubles.

Before a large group, including a number of visitors from Wilkesbarre, Pa., Mayor Nichols stripped to the waist in his office and submitted to an examination.

The examination was made by Dr. John B. Hawes, 2d, tuberculosis specialist, who is a director of the league. He gave the mayor a clean bill of health as far as lung troubles are concerned.

Mayor Nichols then issued a statement urging the citizens of Boston to submit to examinations by their own physicians, or go to health clinics of the city, for similar examinations. He said the health department records showed many persons examined who were found to be suffering from the disease in advanced stages.

The visitors from Wilkesbarre, who are making a study of Boston's health units, considered the model for all others in the country, included Dr. Charles H. Miner, former state health commissioner of Pennsylvania; Joseph G. Sinclair, superintendent of accounts and finance of the Wilkesbarre City Council; Fred H. Gates, Wilkesbarre city clerk; Thomas H. Atherton, an architect. They were escorted to the various health units by Dr. Charles F. Wilinsky, director of the health units of Boston. The city of Wilkesbarre has recently received a donation of $500,000 with which to establish health units.

Previously Mayor Nichols received Maj.-Gen. Enoch H. Crowder, U. S. A., retired, father of the selective draft law, who is to be the guest of the Massachusetts Association of Selective Officers at their annual banquet in the Parker House tonight.

BOULDER DAM BILL VOTED

Washington, March 15 (AP)—The six weeks of silence on the new Swing-Johnson Boulder canyon dam measure was broken in the House today, when the irrigation committee reported the bill with a favorable recommendation.

The bill would authorize expenditure of $125,000,000 for construction of a 550-foot dam and power plant at Boulder or Black canyon on the Nevada-Arizona boundary, and the opening of an all-American canal from the Colorado river to Imperial and Coachella valleys, California.

The report described the paramount purpose of the bill as "the protection of human life and property in Imperial valley, which is under constant menace of destruction from the floods of a rebellious and treacherous river." The project, it added, will put its wasting waters to work in the interest of society, creating new homes, building up new industries and adding to the wealth of the nation."

In addition to ending the flood menace the committee deemed the measure the solution to an "intolerable situation which now exists in Imperial valley.

Referring to the long controversy over the Colorado river compact, the report declared the present compact was "satisfactory to six of the seven states affected."

"Arizona alone has continued to withhold her approval," it added.

Passage of the bill, it was said, would make the compact effective and settle an interstate controversy of long standing.

BIBLE STUDENT, VERMONT HOTEL MAN, BANKRUPT

New York, March 15 (INS)—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed here today by Clarence E. Boyer, a student of Union Theological Seminary. Boyer operated the Stowaway Hotel at New Haven, Ct., and the Lake Raponda Hotel at Lemington, Vt., under the name of Boyer & Edwards. Many of the creditors listed in the schedules are Yale University students.

Insurance Bill Rejected

An adverse report on the petition of Merle G. Summers to assess expense of maintaining the state division of savings bank life insurance upon the banks in proportion to their premium income was today made by the legislative committee on state administration.

13 HURT WHEN BUS AND TWO TRUCKS MEET

ave., Bridgeport, Ct., cuts about face.

Dr. Marietta E. Newcomb, 60, Dundee st., Boston, severe gash across the forehead, numerous cuts on the body and possible fractured clavicle.

Mrs. William Heath of West Brighton, Staten Island, shaken up.

William Heath, her husband, and an infant he was holding, shaken up when they were wedged in between two seats.

Edward McCarthy of 12 Hall pl., Quincy, driver of the bus, was taken into custody by police following the crash, together with Alexander Yates of Bridgeport, driver of one of the trucks, and his helper, Randolph Green.

The most seriously injured was Dr. Newcomb, who gave Mrs. F. W. Patridge of Boston, a sister, as her nearest relative. An X-ray was taken to determine the exact extent of her injuries.

She was riding directly behind the driver, on the left side of the bus, and received the full force of the impact though the driver himself was not hurt.

The Loewinger truck was eastbound, far on the right edge of the highway. The third truck suddenly appeared. The latter truck forced the bus to the left and sent it head-on into the Loewinger truck. The Loewinger truck upset and the bus rebounded into the highway, to be struck by the Smith truck.

The accident occurred at Boston Post road and Riverside Drive.

REVERE MAN HELD UP AND ROBBED BY AUTO THUG

While walking home from a bus line in Malden st., Revere, early today, John Williams of South ave., North Revere, was held up and robbed of $8 by an armed youth.

As Williams left the bus he noticed two men. At Conant st. a touring car overtook him. The robber jumped out, ordered him to throw up his hands and went through his pockets. There was another man in the car. The robber was described as 25 years old, stockily built and wearing a gray felt hat. Patrolman John Delaney later found an auto on Newman st. It bore registration plates stolen from another car owned by Miss Zelma Barisis of Main st., Everett.

no more "YELLOW MASK!"

Here is a Sure Way to Banish that Yellowish Tinge from Your Teeth and Keep them Eternally White—Guaranteed!

If your teeth have a yellowish hue—(look now and see!)—there is a safe, scientific and pleasant way to remove that unbecoming color. Leading dentists recommend it. The foremost movie stars and stage beauties use it. Hundreds of thousands of women and men have accepted it and testify to teeth whiter and prettier than ever before.

We ask only that you try it—for twenty days. We know that this method will so whiten your teeth and impart such dazzling beauty effects that you will never revert to old-fashioned dentifrices. We'll go further—we'll guarantee it! If this new and marvelous means fails—(and it won't) return the unused portion of the tube to your druggist and get the full purchase price back. Could anything be fairer than this?

This way to white teeth beauty is ORPHOS TOOTH PASTE. And the reason it alone can banish that stubborn, unlovely "Yellow Mask" is this: ORPHOS is composed of "Tri-Calcium Phosphate." This is a magic white powder that foremost dentists use to clean and polish teeth. It is their teeth beauty secret. The makers of ORPHOS have succeeded in composing a pleasant, tasty tooth paste from this wonderful powder. And it's so safe—can't harm the softest enamel.

Accept now this marvelous ORPHOS. Don't keep the white loveliness of your teeth hidden behind that "Yellow Mask." Remember our guarantee. Buy a tube from your druggist today—without fail.

SAYS HE PUT EXPLOSIVES ON RAIL TO SAVE CHILDREN

A novel excuse won freedom today for Antonio Fiore, 35, of Temple st., Revere, who was arraigned in Chelsea District Court charged with putting explosives on a trolley car track. Officer Maynard Rogers testified he saw Fiore running away after a trolley car had run over a 32-calibre cartridge and exploded it, on Revere st., Revere.

Fiore told Judge Cutler he had disposed of a number of cartridges in this manner because he feared they would fall into the hands of children. The law provides that in order to obtain a conviction on this charge it is necessary to prove the intention of injuring property.

N. E. WATER TRAFFIC PARLEY AT PROVIDENCE

Providence, March 15—Memoranda on water transportation with relation to New England were presented at the Biltmore Hotel today by Frank S. WEDDING OF NOTE ON TODAY'S HUB CALENDAR

Hub Lines of Note Join When Miss Jane Tucker Exchanged Vows With Young Hamilton Warren, Says Betty Alden

MARCH'S MOST LEADEN SKY, AND THE VERY SORRIEST sample the late winter month can furnish as weather (and her supply is infinite) did not one whit dim the auro of brilliance surrounding the wedding today of Miss Jane Tucker and young Mr. Hamilton Warren. Boston's great are intimately concerned in the union. And some of the world's spectacular were within the dim, flower-scented church when the vows were exchanged. The bride had for grandpere, on the distaff side, that Colonel Edward H. House whose name is known in every civilized country of the globe, and who was a famous President's closest friend and confidante during trying days of world strife.

MR. AND MRS. RANDOLPH TUCKER ARE THE BRIDE'S parents, Mrs. Tucker having been Miss Mona House in girlhood days. Young Mr. Warren's immediate forebears are Mr. and Mrs. Fiske Warren, and, in another generation, his maternal line brings in as grandparent that fine and distinguished Bostonian, world traveler and aristocrat, Mrs. Hamilton Osgood. Mrs. Fiske Warren's name is synonymous with the higher pursuits. And as for Mr. Warren, the story of his hobbies, interests and pursuits is fascinating in the extreme.

ONE WILL SUFFICE TO TELL OF. IT IS THE CHIEF HOBBY in the Warren collection. That of the "Single Tax." So ardent was his belief in the movement it carried him way across the sea and into that "smallest republic in the world," to set up a single tax Utopia. In Andorra, high up in the mountain fastnesses between France and Spain, Mr. Warren and his band of enthusiasts settled down for many months. Perhaps Andorra benefitted by the invasion of new ideas. But again, perhaps Andorra frowns on the new and untried, being a long settled community. At any rate, the experiment must have been intensely interesting to those closely concerned.

WITH A SPONTANEITY FAR YOUNGER THAN HER YEARS warrant, Mrs. Hamilton Osgood is always a joyous traveler along the world's interesting paths. She did not, however, cross the big pond for grandson's wedding today. Rather does that young man do the proper grandfilial thing and take his interesting bride to see his very interesting grandmother. Their paths will all cross "somewhere in Europe," that of Mrs. Osgood and of the lune de miel. Mrs Osgood officially makes her home in Dublin with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Erskine Childers. But otherwise she flits hither and yon about two continents.

THE SECOND CHRISTOPHER SHOP LUNCHEON WAS PRINCIPALLY and specially "hors d'oeuvres." From one delectable hors d'oeuvre to another the guests nibbled and sampled their way, with infinite gastronomic satisfaction. Now a third luncheon is arranged for some time in April. It will, of course, interest the same set of two hundred or so that never misses one of these feasts. Mrs. Horace Morison, Mrs. Wilbur Grant and others of the Shop's leaders believe the old saw about variety, and have wrung in so many varieties of feasts none may be left for another occasion.

PERHAPS I MIGHT, IN MY HUMBLE WAY, OFFER A SUGGESTION for the next luncheon. Mrs. Morison might bring into play her knowledge of finest French cookery and put on a perfectly appointed and perfectly prepared luncheon, a la Francais. Because Mrs. Morison is specially gifted thus. And, furthermore, has the professional knowledge necessary. She acquired it in Paris, home of the gourmet. And during many months was right-hand man to a famous French chef, watching that master concoct sauces and achieve entrees. Learning all those subtle nuances, the why of this and the what of that to attain the perfect dish.

ALL THIS WAS DURING, OR RATHER AFTER, STRENUOUS war service abroad. After peace had come, and while Mr. Morison was concerned with his self-imposed duties in a middle European country for which he wears now and again certain very imposing decorations, heaped upon him by a grateful King. Should Mrs. Morison be induced to supervise such a luncheon as I have suggested, certainly the gastronomic delights enjoyed by Christopher Shop guests would be ample reward for her efforts.

SCARCELY DOES THERE PASS a day that Junior League girls are not called upon for some "provisional" duty. By now, having put in several months of such arduous tasks, every girl chosen for the sacred circle might well feel that the accolade of full membership is duly hers. One of the tenets of the organization, cheerful response, is first nature with the probationer. So when Miss Alice de Normandie sits herself down at the telephone to corral a band for service no probationer says her nay.

MISS DE NORMANDIE IS chairman of this year's group of the League. And her satellites will do another ushering service (they have done this so frequently as to be expert) on Saturday morning, March 17, at the Exeter Street Theater, when the Norfolk House Centre is to be benefitted and Arthur C. Pillsbury speaks on the "Secrets of Plant Life." Those who support good works are interested—Mrs. Karl Adams, Mrs. David Cheever, Mrs. J. Amory Jeffries, Mrs. W. Rodman Peabody and others of the same sort who give stability to the cause philanthropic.

REED TO INVADE SOUTH, WEST

Washington, March 15 (INS)—Having completed a speaking tour of the Southwest and the West Coast, Sen. James A. Reed, Missouri, now plans to extend to the South his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination. He will speak in North Carolina late this month and then go to Wisconsin for two speeches.

His western trip convinced him Reed said today, that the country is ready for a return of a Democratic administration.

"If the party acts wisely and prudently it should win in November," declared Reed. "The nation is aflame over the corruption among the higher officials of the Republican party.

Reed explained he was seeking not so much to foster his own cause as to expound sound principles for the party.

LEAGUE MEETS IN NEW DRIVE TO 'DISARM'

Geneva, March 15 (AP)—With a newcomer, Turkey, among them, 24 countries including two non-members of the League of Nations—the United States and Soviet Russia—met here today to renew for the dozenth time their efforts to get a practical start toward disarmament.

The agenda comprised a report of the security committee and the Russian proposal to wipe out all armaments and means of producing them.

Jonkheer J. Loudon of Holland, who presided, opened the session by saying that security pacts were the only means of preparing for disarmament. He declared the Russian proposal failed to take into account the present state of mind throughout the world

The disarmament convention drawn up last year, but not completed, was also on the agenda for a second reading. Discussion of it was postponed until Monday, however, on the motion of Maxim Litvinoff, head of the Soviet delegation, to allow time for the arrival of the head of the Turkish delegation.

Count Von Vernstorff announced that the German delegation would push a resolution imposing full publicity in regard to all armaments as the starting point for their reduction.

The commission then adjourned until tomorrow afternoon.

Be Fitted Correctly—Street Floor Fitting Rooms

Ours is not just a business of shoes

It isn't simply a question of leathers and workmanship and many sizes. It isn't simply a matter of making shoes and selling shoes. It wasn't that, way back in the 'sixties when the first customer walked into the Coward Store. It isn't just that today when thousands walk in every week.

For our business is giving comfort to people. To all kinds of people. The people who could get comfort at any price, and the people who simply have to have comfort so that they may do their daily work as well as may be.

All these come to the Coward Store because they know that here we are eager to give them comfort, ease, that intangible feeling of well-being that comes when you step into a pair of shoes that fit snugly, easily.

And they are never turned away disappointed. Every man and woman, every boy and girl who comes through our doors gets fitted to a pair of shoes that seems made to order. For it has long been our business to fit feet, not just to sell shoes. Perhaps that is the chief reason why we have grown to be the largest retail shoe store in the world.

WORLD WAR VETERANS ON BOSTON BILL

C. O. Budden

Two rehabilitated veterans of the World War, Charles O. Budden and Joseph Antonelli of Arlington and Newton, respectively, are appearing upon the stage of the Keith-Albee Boston Theater this week. After the war Antonelli and Budden were sent to the Boston Conservatory of Music by the U. S. Veterans Bureau. Budden played the organ at the Old South Church before the war while Antonelli appeared in "Chimes Of Normandy" as the leading tenor.

This appearance in Boston is the first in some years for these local boys. They have been playing Broadway with great success and are known as Antonelli & Budden in "Harmonizing As You Like It."

Antonelli is a member of the Newton Lodge of Elks and the Newton American Legion and Budden is a member of the Arlington Post of the American Legion.

FIVE BOSTONIANS IN ACT AT ORPHEUM

"Jerry" Stevens

With five Bostonians in its cast of eleven, the Paddy Cliff vaudeville act at Loew's Orpheum Theater this week is well supplied with local talent. Paddy and Elsa Free are featured dancers in this big revue which also boasts an all-girl band. Paddy lived in this city five years and began his professional career as a dancer here. He has made the grade and returns to his home town as a vaudeville headliner. Four of the feminine musicians are also natives of this section. Jerry Stevens, sister of the popular Perley Stevens, is a resident of Neponset. She is a featured soloist with the trumpet and violin.

The other local products are Doris Smith of Winthrop, a graduate of the Conservatory of Music; Nanon Nininger, born and educated in Boston proper, and Hazel Connors of Woburn.

MOZART MUSIC ENTHRALLS AUDITORS

By MOSES SMITH.

After hearing the music of Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro," which the American Opera Company produced in English at the Hollis last night, the person starved for this and other masterpieces of Mozart is so intoxicated that, if he happens to be a reviewer, he is scarcely in condition to give an adequate account of the performance in a few sentences.

It is criminal on the part of our major "grand" opera companies to devote great pains and expense on the wrong kind of production of many pieces of musical junk, and neglect the transcendant beauties of Mozart. Even the worst of performances of these perfect masterpieces is to be preferred to none at all. Boston music-lovers owe Vladimir Rosing and his associates a tremendous debt for this alone.

TREATMENT REVERENT

Moreover, the performance was a good one. The music, to describe which adjectives fail us, was treated reverently, in the spirit that the composer intended. The ridiculous flourishes of conventional operatic presentation were entirely absent. Things moved along at a rapid clip. Before our eyes there was unrolling a rather beautiful presentation of intelligence, of sincerity. Our ears heard the marvellous comedy taken from Beaumarchais.

Of course there were flaws in the performance—mostly vocal ones. Mozart's music is not easy to sing; its artless simplicity, to be well rendered, requires years of training and experience which the young singers of the American Opera Company have not had. But these flaws were, with one exception, overlooked in the general beauty of the presentation. The one serious fault was the tendency of the singers, at times, to drag the tempi more slowly than Mr. St. Leger's beat.

"MARTHA" AT MATINEE

It is unnecessary to speak of the details of the production. The triumph was the triumph of the company as a whole. What remains, after everything has been said, is that we were once again in the presence of a great masterpiece of music. The more the pity that the house was not overcrowded as it should have been.

The matinee bill was "Martha," an opera that was universally condemned when the Chicago Opera Company played it here earlier in the winter. But this English-speaking company had a new way with "Martha," a convincing way, which was to treat it lightly, almost in the manner of operetta. As operetta it pleases, while as grand opera it is a bore.

USHERS WILL GIVE FUTURE IMPRESSIONS

Frances Usher

Theatregoers are promised an unusual entertainment next week, when the Ushers, Harry and Frances, present their distinctive offering, "Fifty Years from Now," at the Scollay Sq. Olympia.

In a manner which is at once laugh-provoking and amazing, Harry and Frances present their impression of what will be common every day occurrences 50 years hence. The act graphically depicts a summary of the conclusions drawn by the Ushers from years of research. And its presentation involves the use of numerous mechanical and scientific marvels. These, augmented by the ready wit and talented accomplishments of the performers, combine to make "Fifty Years From Now," a distinctive offering.

QUART OF WATER CLEANS KIDNEYS

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications.

THE HOUSE OF DIGNIFIED CREDIT

URGE RELIGION TO STOP CRIME

Declaring police have proved powerless to stop crime and warning against the influx of atheism through socialism and bolshevism, Evangelist W. H. Biederwolf pleaded for a return to the old-fashioned Christian gospel today at his noon meeting in Park Street Church.

"The gospel of Jesus Christ stands as the one effective bulwark between civilization and chaos," he said.

"We find the police all but powerless to stop crime. The newspapers record this sordid history; a truly fearful record of lawlessness such as the world has never known.

"Socialism and bolshevism are organized atheism. It is their common foundation.

"Soviet Russia is teaching it to her children and the children in our schools and colleges are being taught it, insofar as the radicals are able to reach them. They are taught they can never be free, never untrammeled until God is thrown into the discard.

"Only a few months ago the leaders of this movement addressed 16,000 persons at Madison Square Garden, New York. We find evidences of it in high places as well as low, in textbooks and even in the pulpit, where a certain type of un-Christian minister is doing his utmost to destroy God's kingdom."

Father and Son Study to Bring Family to U. S.

Providence, March 15—Back in Italy, father and son were pals. Seven years ago they came to Providence together and neither could speak English. Now they are both students at the Esek Hopkins evening school, studying to better themselves that they may earn enough to bring over the rest of the family.

Thirty years' difference between the ages of Frank Fraioli 48, and his son, Carmino, but both are grasping the studies on evenings and each helps the other over the difficult places.

Father and son are [illegible] and they live together at 3 Marietta st. They hope shortly to have saved enough money and to be well enough versed in American ways to be able to send for the other Josephine and Vittorio, 9, and Domenico, 7.

DORIS AWAITS U. S. COUNSEL

Montreal, March 15 (INS)—Urgent requests for the presence of Wolgange E. Crebari, Mount Vernon, N. Y., attorney for the McDonald defense committee, marked the dawning of the last eight days of life for Doris Julia McDonald, sentenced to hang at Valleyfield on March 23 with George McDonald, her husband, for the murder of Adelard Bouchard, a taxi driver.

Doris pins her sole hope for life on the possibility of McDonald making an affidavit clearing her of participation in the crime. Immediately upon Crebari's arrival, she will summon a conference of all her array of legal talent to obtain McDonald's story.

Until Crebari arrives on Friday her death cell is barred to all counsel except R. L. Calder, K. C. She has refused to speak to anyone else.

On Wednesday the couple will be moved to Valleyfield to await execution on Friday.

If You are Scotch Don't Read This!

(For, being Scotch, you will already have sensed these values through that mysterious 7th sense that you have.)

This message is addressed, therefore, to Boston's men and young men who want well cut new Spring suits, who are interested in saving on their clothing bill, and who are not Scotch.

A Scotchman in our organization, to whom we offered a preliminary showing, bought three suits. "This is not extravagance," said he with a grand gesture, "it's thrift."

The R. H. White Co. does not advertise comparative prices. This sale has been held for a good many years. The great number of our customers have learned not to judge our values by the price alone. They do not wonder if they are worth more than the sale price. They have come to know they are—even though we make no claims and avoid the pitfalls of exaggerated statements. They know that what they get is very likely to be much better than they would be apt to expect, based on general conditions.

Don't judge by the low price of $39.50 alone. The suits we have had made especially for this sale are of such quality in fabrics and such workmanship that they will be in good countenance in any business or professional office, directors' meeting or luncheon group; and men who (largely from habit) pay vastly more would find it some job on comparing their suits with these to fully justify paying what they do.

SENT LOVE NOTES TO NEGRESS

New York, March 15 (INS) —Letitia Ernestine Brown, 34 negress, wept today on the witness stand as she examined love letters which she alleges were written to her by Carleton Curtis, millionaire clubman.

She seeks to prove she was Curtis' common law wife. She asks alimony [illegible] $.00 a week and $20,000 counsel fees.

One of the letters read, in part:

"I love you my darling, with an unshrinking love. I have you constantly on my mind."

The woman also identified several [illegible] of silver she said were given her by Curtis. He told her they were family heirlooms she testified.

Curtis, she testified, saved her in 1911, when she was 17, from being run over by a truck. She said they strolled and had tea, followed for a number of days by clandestine meetings. At his urging she said, she rented a four room apartment in West 54th st., which he furnished and where they lived as husband and wife. At his suggestion, she went on, they were known as Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown.

"He was very kind," she said. "I got $300 a month from a trust fund he made for me. He filled the house with flowers, roses, lilacs and chrysanthemums.

"I went to the Hotel Devon in New York one day to see him. He saw me talking to a negro bell hop and bawled me out for talking to a negro."

CONDUCTOR TO CONSULT SMITH GIRL'S FAMILY

Springfield, March 1 —Convinced he saw Frances St. John Smith, missing Smith College freshman, on his train in Quebec Jan 15 a conductor on the Canadian Pacific express started for this city today to confer with representatives of the wealthy Smith family. He was the second to state he saw the girl, the first railroad man reporting he saw her on a train at Woodsville, N. H., bound for Montreal. The second conductor picked out her photograph today.

MAN'S LEGS CRUSHED UNDER HEAVY WAGON

While attempting to board a wagon at Dorchester ave. and West Fourth st., South Boston, today, Thomas Scanlon, 55, of 111 Marcella st., Roxbury, employed by the Elevated, was seriously injured when the horses bolted. Two wheels of the heavy wagon passed over Scanlon's legs and he was taken to the City Hospital where it was said amputation of one foot would be necessary and perhaps of both.

"Biter" Put on Probation

Joseph F. Carke, 31 years of age, a second st. fireman charged with having bitten off about half of the right ear of his brother-in-law, Manual Ross, was placed on probation by Judge Fosdick in the Superior Court today.

VOTE TRANSFER OF CAPE CANAL

Authority for the passing of Cape Cod canal into the hands of the United States was given today by the stockholders of the Boston, Cape Cod and New York Canal Co.

The deed for the transfer was drawn according to the company and will be taken to New York [illegible]. It will be recorded, however, in Massachusetts.

The transfer renders the canal toll free, it automatically becoming a public waterway. The toll [illegible] is to be taken into the War Department organization [illegible] from the [illegible] tolls to the gathering of statistics.

Daddy's Little Flock Tends His Still as He Goes Shopping

Daddy's little helpers didn't help him much with the police in Lynn today when the searching officers entered the home of George Pappas in Boston st.

Little Mary Pappas, 11, "little" Helen Pappas, 7, and "littlest" Walter Pappas, 2, were industriously attending Daddy's 25-gallon still and they admitted it proudly to the officers.

The police collared Daddy down the street in a store and placed him under arrest, charged with manufacturing liquor and keeping and exposing the same substance.

In Lynn court Pappas was fined $125 and was warned not to employ his children in liquor making—and not to make liquor any way.

RAPS ANTI-CATHOLIC TIRADE OF BAPTIST

Palm Beach, Fla., March 15—Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald of Boston was the principal speaker at the Men's Club weekly meeting at Palm Beach.

He struck right out from the shoulder and at the conclusion of the meeting it was the general feeling that the issue Fitzgerald had raised could not be evaded if there was to be any future for the Democratic party.

DURANT'S STAR IS MODEL OF ENGINEERING

"Regarding W. C. Durant's New Star Four, people should realize that it is not a [illegible] experimental model put out merely to create a sensation," said T. S. Johnson, assistant to W. C. Durant.

"The Star is five years old and more than [illegible] are in use. We [illegible] to build it at the price we would not do it.

"The Star has always been a leader in advanced engineering [illegible] Durant's well-known [illegible] as a designer and builder. "Now with all these and four-wheel Bendix brakes, 107-inch wheelbase, rubber-mounted motor and gas tank on the rear, the Star car is outstanding. The Durant-Star exhibit at the Boston show is elaborately [illegible] with a huge black [illegible] which forms a background and [illegible] glorifies the handsome American-made cars."

BIG FRANKLIN CAR PROFITS

Syracuse, March 15—Showing a sharp increase over the report of the preceding year, net profit of the H. H. Franklin Manufacturing Company for 1927, after providing $744,[illegible] for depreciation, amounted to $[illegible],333.13, President H. H. Franklin announced here.

Preferred dividends paid amounted to $[illegible] 76, leaving a net charge against surplus of $19[illegible],767.63. Consolidated net profit of the company and its subsidiaries before preferred dividends, but after taxes, amounted to $183,478.63.

"We continue in a strong financial position with no indebtedness other than current accounts payable," President Franklin said, in his statement to stockholders. "Ratio of net current assets to liabilities is [illegible] to 1.

"This profit was earned since September 1, when the new Airman series of Franklin cars was introduced, and which we consider to be the best in our history."

Franklin pointed out that the [illegible] was [illegible] despite [illegible] investment [illegible] equipment [illegible] up to the highest point of efficiency. The company also improved its [illegible] position by showing approximately $4 in cash and securities for every dollar of current liabilities.

The consolidated balance sheet showed cash amounting to $1,7[illegible] and marketable securities totaling $[illegible]. The company has [illegible] shares of common, no par value, stock outstanding and $5,886,[illegible] of 7 per cent cumulative preferred.

How the company has steadily improved its [illegible] position is [illegible] that the company [illegible] for a period of only six weeks last spring.

Franklin [illegible] confidence that [illegible] will be a [illegible] year. The company's [illegible] for October 1 to March 1 was 23 per cent ahead of the corresponding months of last year, he said.

[illegible] interest in the Willys-Knight Standard Six, the new model which was introduced this year is [illegible]. This is the lowest priced Knight sleeve valve motored car ever built by Willys-Overland.

The refinements which have been made in the Willys-Knight Great Six and in the [illegible] Six model have attracted the favorable comment of buyers.

Reports from the Willys-Overland factory at Toledo, O., continue to indicate a record [illegible] year in [illegible] Whippet and Willys-Knight models. Whippet sales, which [illegible] to the highest figures ever attained by Willys-Overland, following the [illegible] price reductions made in January, still continue at [illegible] rate which is forcing the factory to new production figures and Willys-Overland is producing the second largest quantity of [illegible] cars in the field at the present time, a position which it has maintained since the first of the year.

NEW WILLYS HAS NOVEL FEATURES

The new Willys-Knight Standard Six, which was introduced by Willys-Overland this year, shows many novel features which are proving attractive to buyers.

This is the lowest-priced Knight sleeve valve motored car ever produced by the Toledo manufacturer.

In mechanical construction it duplicates the higher-priced models in the same line.

In equipment it is characterized by the use of a non-breakable steering wheel, a pedal control of the head lights and dimmers, and by an entirely new instrument board panel which adds materially to the finish and quality appearance of the interior of the car.

The pedal control of the dimmers in the driving lights is a unique type of construction which makes it easy for the driver to operate the light controls. The control button is located at the left of the clutch control.

A noticeable feature of the Willys-Knight standard six is the roominess which has been obtained in the bodies.

The space in the front compartment is sufficiently large to give full comfort to tall people. The steering column is adjustable to three positions, enabling the owner to have it set to suit his or her convenience.

The doors are wide and the rear seating compartment is exceptionally roomy.

The standard six rounds out a complete line of three six-cylinder models including the special six and the Willys-Knight great six.

It was developed as the result of a demand for a lower priced Knight sleeve-valve motored car on the part of thousands of motor car users.

NEW DODGE HAS FOUR-WHEEL BRAKES

Among the cars exhibited by Dodge Brothers, Inc., at the Boston automobile show are those of the "128" line which are now equipped with four-wheel steeldraulic (mechanical) brakes. This improvement was made just before the first of the year and was accompanied with no extra cost to the purchaser. The supplying of these brakes to the four-cylinder passenger cars constitutes a major improvement.

A unique feature of this system is the connection between that part of the mechanism supported on the frame and that on the axle, which is through a special flexible connection, eliminating the complicated universal joints and shafts usually associated with mechanical four wheel brakes. This connection consists of a steel cable passing through the center of short steel guides or vertebrae, the ends of which are rounded and cupped so that as they fit together they form a series of ball-and-socket joints, permitting a considerable amount of bending.

These guides are supported in a coil spring casing around which is placed a heavy protecting cover of rubber fabric.

This construction possesses sufficient rigidity to transmit tension in the cable without changing form. The shape of the joints in the conduit is such that the length along the center line does not change when the conduit is bent, therefore the brake action is not affected by the turning of the wheels, spring action or body roll.

Another unique construction is the brake shoe which floats on the brake support, not being fastened to the anchor and therefore is not affected by eccentricity of the brake drum. The brake shoe is [illegible] of [illegible] steel, the rear half being [illegible] and the front [illegible], giving a [illegible] wrapping action on the [illegible] half when the brake is applied. The shoe is expanded by a [illegible] moved by pull from the cable through the flexible connection, and returned to the released position by a cross spring in the brake shoe. The shoe is held in position by the anti-rattler spring which holds it against the anchor pin and the brake shoe top

strides far ahead

All cars look good on a showroom floor. But out on the road—where performance tells the tale—Buick reveals the full measure of its superiority.

Buick soars away at the traffic change. Buick makes a transcontinental tour with the same ease as a trip to the office or club. Buick levels hills with a rush of power as smooth and silent as electric energy.

A powerful valve-in-head six-cylinder engine vibrationless beyond belief; a great new double-drop frame; Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers, front and rear; and brilliant engine refinements resulting in greater power, greater flexibility and greater getaway.

Performance! That's what you want in a motor car. You want style, luxury, comfort, of course. Buick provides these in unrivaled degree. And in performance Buick strides far ahead!

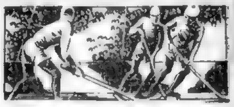
SPEED ACCURACY INTEREST — NEWS THE DAY IT HAPPENS



BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN THURSDAY, MARCH 15, 1928

MR. BOSTON

By Jack Conway

MR. BOSTON received the following query in his mail today. "Now that the heavyweight contenders have eliminated each other, isn't there some youngster who hasn't yet received any of the Rickard ballyhoo who may be the man to dethrone Tunney?"

Mr. Boston got out the dope books and started writing down the names of the best of the younger crop of heavyweights.

"There's Ernie Schaaf," said the veteran half aloud, "and Napoleon Jack Dorval, Benny Touchstone, Joe Monte, Jimmy Braddock, Henry Lamar, Johnny Grosso, George LaRocco, Roberto Roberti, Armand Emmanuel and Paul Swiderski.

"These boys are not yet ready for the big shot, but in a year or so maybe one of them may show sufficient class to warrant a crack at the title.

"Schaaf just now rates as the best of the younger crop of heavyweights. He is only 19 years of age and has shown amazing form in all of his contests.

"Schaaf has a punch in each hand, natural courage and an intense amount of viciousness. It was viciousness that enabled Dempsey to batter Jess Willard into defeat at Toledo. It is quite an asset for a ring star and often makes up for a lack of ring science.

"Ernie isn't fancy in the ring. There is no lost motion to his work. He goes right at the other fellow, letting punches fly with carefree abandon.

"PHIL SCHLOSBERG, an old hand in the fistic racket, is managing Schaaf. Phil was quite a boxer in his day. He later entered business. He was then tipped on Schaaf and became manager of this youngster. He has brought Ernie along carefully. I believe that Schaaf is now ready to shoot against the so-called first line of heavyweights.

Napoleon Jack Dorval is Jack Kearns' entry. Kearns didn't think a great deal of Dorval until the latter defeated Benny Touchstone in New York. He then called Jack back to the coast where he could give him more personal attention.

"Kearns may have his Dorval, but Dempsey has his Armand Emmanuel. The old Tiger purchased a half interest in Emmanuel's contract for $10,000. Emmanuel showed in Boston as an amateur. He is a fine boxer and punches fairly well.

"Rickard was anxious to bring Emmanuel East this winter, but Dempsey decided he didn't have enough experience for matches against high class opponents. So he has kept him out on the coast for further schooling and bouts with mediocre opposition.

"JOE MONTE has beaten LaRocco and Muskie and fought a draw with Jimmy Braddock. He also stopped Hambone Kelley. Monte has been putting on weight and now scales 180 pounds. If he can pack on eight more pounds he will cause plenty of trouble to the big fellows.

"Paul Swiderski showed when he outpointed Monte in New York that he has the skill and speed to upset the rugged boys.

"Henry Lamar, under the management of Frank Shannon, has been developing slowly and may prove a real star in a year or so. Lack of weight has kept Lamar back, but he is growing heavier. He has skill, speed and a high degree of intelligence. It will take a pretty good fighter to beat Lamar right now.

"Jimmy Braddock is the darling of New York. He has been proclaimed as one of the best of the younger crop of heavyweights by Gene Tunney and Bill Muldoon of the New York Commission.

"Touchstone has shown flashes of high class form only to fade out later.

"Roberto Roberti is big and powerful, cool under fire, a good puncher and very courageous.

"Possibly one of these kids will be the one to knock the high hat from Tunney, or it may be some husky now in a lumber camp or working along the waterfront who will be the next champion. Then again it may be some youngster now a bundle boy in a department store who will be the next to take over the championship held by such immortals as John L. Sullivan, Corbett, Fitzsimmons, Jeffries, Johnson and Dempsey.

"As somebody once remarked, fighters come and fighters go overnight."

Try to Remain Calm in Golf—Mrs. Horn

By MIRIAM BURNS HORN

Women's National Golf Champion

IT is difficult for everyone to play golf with the same degree of determination under all circumstances. Some persons become absolutely panic-stricken if they are down. Others prefer that state of affairs to being up, saying they can concentrate better and play more satisfactory golf.

In plain words, golfers are so temperamental that it takes a very small thing to upset the most of them.

During this past season, I was playing the semi-finals of a certain tournament, with a girl who was a stranger to me.

I had met her only that morning prior to our match, but during the entire week, I had heard so much of her superior playing, that I decided it would take my concentrated efforts, together with my best brand of golf, to defeat her.

So, I set out, determined in spirit. It was a horrid day, very wet under foot from an all-night rain, and one which continued intermittently through that morning.

It was anything but a day for good golf, but I developed a putting and approaching streak—the most spectacular I have ever displayed. I am not exaggerating in saying I did not have a putt to make of more than four feet in length, during our entire match—my short game was so deadly.

ON the short fourth hole, I sank a run-up shot from off the edge of the green, when she lay near the cup with quite a reasonable putt for a two. That completely broke her spirit. She was unable to make a decent shot from then on. Naturally that gave me confidence.

I sank a few more putts and ended the match on the 11th hole—a match which should have been nearly even, by virtue of the game of which she is capable. My opponent did not realize I was just as frightened of her before we started, but her timidity only gave me courage.

Inasmuch as there are exceptions to all rules, probably something will happen to change my views on golf psychology, but, until that time, there are certain theories and ideas which are particularly helpful to me in a match. Again I shall be personal in citing several specific examples.

It is strange that I should revert to this past National so often, but it has afforded me a subject for the points that I am trying to illustrate. One frequently reads in murder or mystery stories such a line as "the inner workings of the master mind."

That sounds rather blood-thirsty in connection with golf, but after all are not the defeated ones victims to your prey—conquered in the path to victory? And these are the inner workings, the thoughts uppermost in my mind at various times.

Schoolboy Fives Battle for Title

M.I.T. COURT TOURNEY OPENS

Arlington Plays New Bedford in Opening Game at Tech Hangar

Tech's third annual basketball tournament will get started at 4 p. m. today, with New Bedford Vocational and Arlington high school engaging in the opening game.

At the finish of this contest Lynn Classical and Brockton high will meet.

In the evening Gloucester and Framingham high will take the court at 7:30, with Chelsea and Medford waiting to do their stuff in the last game of the first round. Medford is the defending champion, having won the title a year ago.

Everett high school, the best team in this section, is not in the Tech tourney due to a slipup on the part of the Glens Falls officials. Everett was invited to participate in the New York championships and accepted.

Then it was decided that Everett and St. John's Prep, another unbeaten outfit, would have to play off to see which team was the most fit to represent eastern Massachusetts. Everett, in the meantime received an upset from Cambridge Latin, and the Danvers Prep school officials ruled their basketball season closed.

So Everett lost out on both contests. The Davis five would be a favorite to win the Tech tournament if they were entered, and there are few who doubt but that they could. They have beaten Medford and Chelsea, both teams favored in the M. I. T. carnival, twice each.

Medford high school seems to have a fine chance of retaining its title. Coach Ben Beck has two great forwards in Frankie Berecz and Captain Coffey Wells. Morrison and Cochrane are fine guards and Bill Sherman is a smart center.

Medford had a good season although losing two battles to Everett. They took Rogers High in a game at their own gym, but lost to the Newport, R. I., five when they returned the visit.

Billy Barton Makes A Poor Showing

Cheltenham, Eng., March 15 (AP)—Billy Barton, American-owned entrant in the Liverpool grand national, was an also ran in the national hunt handicap steeplechase for £1000 over 3¼ miles today.

The race was won by Knockirr with Low Tide second and Spear O'War third.

Billy Barton is owned by Howard Bruce of Baltimore and was beaten in his last two starts after a brilliant victory in his first appearance on the British tracks.

Spring Is Not Very Far Off

The Newton town team is again back on the baseball diamond after a lapse of five years. Manager DeLuco claims that the following players are out for the team: Gyp Lawless of B. U.; J. Pass, ex-Newton High star; Dick Walsh, formerly of Woburn High, and Frank Ryan of Waltham. Teams desiring games communicate with Pat DeLuco, 327 Watertown st., Newton, or phone Newton North 3613-M.

GET TOGETHER NIGHT FOR HARVARD GRID MEN

The second winter get-together meeting planned for Harvard's football players by Capt. Art French will take place at the Varsity Club tonight, starting at 6:30 o'clock.

Rickard Making More Candy for the 'Suckers'

New York, March 15 (INS)—"Nothing will be done about a final elimination or selecting an opponent for Tunney until I have talked over the situation with Gene," Promoter Tex Rickard declared before leaving here today for a two weeks' vacation at Miami, Fla.

"Tunney thinks Tom Heeney is entitled to the June fight," continued Rickard. "Maybe Tom is, but he must first meet Johnny Risko."

Despite Rickard's reference to a June fight, one of his associates declared that the promoter had abandoned plans for a title bout in June and would tell Tunney that a September fight is his only prospect.

DUFFY TO WIELD AXE AGAIN IN EAGLE SQUAD

Another batch of Boston College's ambitious ball tossers will feel the sash of Coach Hugh Duffy's axe before the end of the week. With one fell swoop Duffy reduced his squad in half just seven days ago, but desires an even smaller outfit so that he will be able to put more time into polishing up the play of the team rather than selecting the good and bad rookies.

Three weeks from Saturday Boston College will be facing Georgetown at Washington, D. C., in the [illegible] campaign. [illegible] If the next three [illegible] vancement the [illegible] Hilltoppers with a team [illegible] most mid-season [illegible].

All that is missing in the [illegible] workouts at the Armory is [illegible] of batting practice. The first two teams have been staging six-inning battles, but the hitting is limited and the batters are not allowed to take a full cut at the pellet.

Boston College's starting lineup is practically settled. There is one position in the outfield that the boys are battling for. Fred McMenimen and Hugh McNulty or Lefty Shea will be the Eagle battery. Hank O'Day, Fred Moncewicz, Fat Clinton and Al Weston will be back at the infield berths which they have covered for the past two seasons.

[illegible] Fitzgerald [illegible] Herb Stokinger at center are practically sure of clinching these jobs. Smokey Kelliher, Ted Duffy, Joe Kamesh and Dick Morrisey are all waiting for the odd job in the outer garden.

Bouts Last Night

By the Associated Press

Edinburgh, Scotland—Alex Ireland won European middleweight championship from Tommy Milligan on foul (9).

Rochester, N. Y.—Roberto Roberti, Italy, knocked out Tiny (Jim) Herman, Barberton, O. (5).

DesMoines, Ia.—Fernando Gonzales, Chicago, outpointed Pinkie George, Des Moines (10). Louie Mays, Des Moines, defeated Steve Moran, St. Paul (10).

Wilmington, Cal.—Pico Ramos, Wilmington, beat Danny Kramer, Philadelphia (10).

San Francisco—Artie Sullivan, Boston, and Jimmy Patterson, San Francisco, drew (4).

Ely, Nev.—George Eagle, Chicago, knocked out Jimmy Ross, Pocatello, Idaho (4).

Tech Student Wins High Gun Honors

A student of Massachusetts Institute of Technology captured high honors in the First Corps area [illegible] shooting in tches for R. O. T. C. units, according to the score announced today. His team placed [illegible] in the senior standing.

R. M. Harbeck, the winner, scored 771 for aggregate score out of a possible 1000.

Norwich University led the senior class in team totals with a score of 7546. New Bedford high school scored 7378 to lead the junior division and the first team of Wakefield high school bested its second team 6519 to 6456 in a special shoot. [illegible] Wellington of New Bedford led his class with 748 and B. Tuttle led the Wakefield boys with 718.

Red Sox Have Six Classy Pitchers

By JOE CASHMAN

Bradenton, Fla., March 15—Bill Carrigan is one manager who doesn't entertain the swollen head idea held by so many rival pilots that a strong pitching staff isn't as necessary for success in baseball as it was prior to the advent of the lively ball.

The Fenway skipper is of the opinion that a staff like he had when he was leading the Sox to world championships would make any team, regardless of its hitting strength, which is considered so important these days, great in this or any other era of the game.

Joe Cashman

Consequently, he is spending most of his time this spring with his [illegible] candidates, confident that [illegible] can build up a strong [illegible] corps, the [illegible] of the team [illegible] take care of [illegible].

Naturally [illegible] expect[illegible] to have a staff like the one the [illegible] boasted in 1915 [illegible]. He is trying merely to develop five or six hurlers who can work regularly. That's enough to insure the team getting somewhere, he contends.

MAKES FINE PROGRESS

His efforts are already beginning to bear fruit. Danny MacFayden, Jack Russell and Hal Wiltse, veterans, are at this early date going as well as they did at their best last season, and five or six of the newcomers seem destined to make good.

Frank Bennett, Jack Wilson and Herb Bradley, who were with the team at the start of last season and farmed out, all seem to have benefitted a lot as a result of a year in the minors, and appear to be ready to take their regular turn in the box for the Sox.

And three rookies—Jack Settlemire, a southpaw, Ed Morris, and Clifford Garrison are showing a lot for newcomers.

Settlemire, who was with Mobile last season, is the best of the lot, and virtually sure to be retained. He looks every bit as good as Wiltse and should be a regular from the start, which would make the team well off as regards portside hurlers.

It is unlikely that both Morris and Garrison will stay, but one or the other will and, whoever wins out, the Sox should be the gainers as both are big and strong and look like ideal hurlers.

GREAT MOUND STAFF

The work of these nine flingers to date has caused the experts who have visited the various big league training camps in Florida to rate the Fenway outfit one of the strongest in the circuit from a pitching standpoint, proving that Carrigan has lost none of that uncanny knack in handling mound prospects which made him so famous in the past.

So [illegible] the Sox would [illegible] quite a lot of excitement in American League circles this season if Manager Bill is correct in his estimation of the value of pitching.

Bruins Refunding $26,300 to Season Ticket Holders

The Boston Bruins ticket office was busy today settling season ticket accounts and making refunds of season ticket deposits and the sum of $26,300 is ready for season ticket holders in checks of $5. That money was deposited with the Bruins to protect season ticket privileges and is now being returned, inasmuch as the final game of the regular season will be played Tuesday night with Jimmy Herberts and his Toronto teammates at the Arena.

The season ticket checks will be found in the season ticket envelopes for the Toronto game and will be ready for distribution tomorrow. The Bruins season ticket plan was an enormous success this year and will be continued from year to year.

BAKER CAGES 73 BASKETS OUT OF 75 SHOTS

Leston, S. C., March 14 (AP)—Reginald Baker of Savannah, Ga., was announced tonight as the winner in the men's division of the [illegible] championship free throw tournament with 73 baskets out of a possible 75.

Lai Prefers Laundry to Bush League Berth

Augusta, Ga., March 15 (AP)—Buck Lai, the Chinaman with the New York Giants, will open up a laundry in preference to joining Little Rock. Manager McGraw sent Lai to the Little Rocks the other day but he is still in camp here.

"I'll go in the laundry business first" Buck declared in refusing to quit the Giants.

MULLEN THREATENS MANDELL

New York, March 15 (INS)—Threatened legal action loomed today in the promoters' war over the services of Sammy Mandell as a result of the action of Sammy's manager, Eddie Kane, in signing Mandell to defend the lightweight crown against Jimmy McLarnin on May 17 at the Polo Grounds under the promotion of Tex Rickard.

Jim Mullen, Chicago promoter, declared he would not only take steps to have Mandell suspended by the Illinois Boxing Commission and the National Boxing Association and his $5000 forfeit seized, but would institute injunction proceedings against the title fight in New York.

Kane's answer to this is a statement that he stands ready to carry out his agreement with Mullen anytime up to June 21, the date specified in the Chicago contract.

"Mullen is trying to hold Mandell for a match he can't make," Kane said. "We gave him a reasonable time to get McLarnin and he failed. Mandell will fight McLarnin in Chicago anytime up to June 21, if Mullen can make the match."

McLarnin probably will train at Gus Wilson's place near Orangeburg, N. Y.

SOLOMON MAY CONQUER SCHAAF

Anything can happen when two heavyweights get together, which is one reason for the attractiveness of the Ernie Schaaf-King Solomon heavyweight battle which will be decided at the Arena next Monday night.

Schaaf is being hailed from coast to coast as a future champion of the world. He has everything that is necessary for the greatest heavyweight since Dempsey was in his prime, and that includes boxing skill, punching power, and viciousness. It will not be long before Schaaf is the greatest favorite a Boston ring has ever known.

It is said that 500 [illegible] with [illegible] band will be at the Arena on Monday night to [illegible] the [illegible] heavyweight [illegible] on to victory.

Tom Goodman has a [illegible] lined up in preliminary contest that seems bound to give satisfaction—an eight round return match between Bob Lasse of Revere and Jimmy Amato [illegible]. They fought a slashing 10-rounder in Lynn last week, with Lasse getting the decision.

It was announced yesterday that Rocky Stone, now known as the Hoboken Terror, is to appear in one of the six-round preliminaries. The appearance of Rocky is certain to be hailed with delight for the [illegible] [illegible] is distinctly a local favorite.

Philly Arrows Play Tigers at Arena

By BILL GRIMES

Determined and confident that they have the class and ability to overhaul the Springfield Indians in the fight for the bye position in the Canadian-American League playoffs it will be an inspired Boston Tiger team that battles the Philadelphia Arrows at the Arena tonight.

The Indians are leading the Tigers by five points. Springfield has only three remaining games, all tough, while the Tigers have four games. Springfield has two games with Providence and one with New Haven to play before completing its schedule and many fans question the ability of the Indians to win all three games.

A five point lead at this late stage of a race is considerable but the Tigers, who have been getting the bad breaks all season, believe Lady Luck will smile on their efforts in the next 10 days and permit them to supplant the Indians.

The Tigers have an assignment at hand that [illegible] the best hockey [illegible] Boston [illegible] has been [illegible] what of a tough task for the Tigers this season. The last visit here of the Philly team resulted in a 3-2 win for the Arrows. But it will be a different looking Boston team that squares off against the invaders at the Arena tonight. The Tigers are flying [illegible] they are passing.

The Tigers are in excellent condition for this battle. The only casualty is Pound Contant and Manager Powers is saving him for the playoffs. Contant's knee is healed but Powers is reluctant to take a chance of [illegible] injury at this time.

Powers will start George Redding, [illegible] Contant and Bob Taylor as his first line with Harley Frost, Whitey [illegible] and Eddie Burke for his second line which is known as the "wrecking crew." For other spare forwards the Tigers have Duke [illegible] and Sonny Manning, both right wingers.

The Tigers' staunch defense will function with Ellie Oatman and Reg Mackey on the outer defense and Desmarais [illegible] specials spacing for them. The Tigers' Rock of Gibraltar, Capt. Herb Rheaume, will be in the nets.

Round the Links With BOBBY JONES

By ROBERT T. JONES, Jr.

National Amateur, British Open and Southern Open Champion.

IMAGINATION has been said to be something which a golfer should not possess. To a certain extent that is true. It is certainly a bad thing to have too clearly in mind, when hitting the ball, all the many kinds of disasters which may befall the stroke. Then, if ever, is the time to have a single-track mind which can hold only the immediate objective in view.

Also the kind of imagination that pictures perfection for unseen rivals in medal competition is troublesome for, while the player himself is dropping a stroke here or there, he cannot conceive that the other man on some other part of the course may be doing the same or worse.

But the golfer who is devoid of imagination of any kind will certainly never rise far above mediocrity. There is not a great deal of mental activity required to play the ordinary shots from the tee and through the fairway. These shots in the main have become stereotyped and require no originality. But ever so often there arises a situation which is novel and puzzling. Behind a tree, or on the downslope of a bunker, the player needs imagination and resourcefulness as well as mechanical accuracy.

AT St. Andrews, the people are still talking about a shot made by Francis Ouimet on the seventeenth, the famous Road Hole. The road back of this green is one of the terrors of the St. Andrews links, and to be in it is regarded as absolutely fatal, for the green is very small and a terrible bunker awaits the approach which is too strong.

Ouimet's ball, on this occasion went not only into the road but across it and on to within three or four inches of a stone wall seven or eight yards beyond the road itself. His opponent was safely on in three so that Francis appeared to have lost the hole although he had played only two for he seemingly must play away from the wall with his third pitch on—if he could—in four and take two putts for a six.

Francis approached his ball, looked it over for a moment, and drew a niblic from his bag. Instead of playing the obvious shot to safety, he squared himself to the ball as though intending to drive it through the stone wall. Then to the amazement of everyone, he banged the ball into the wall with the lofted club, and it came back like a shot, cleared the road, pitched onto the green and stayed there. A shot brilliantly executed it is true, but far more brilliantly conceived.

I once saw Walter Hagen play a marvelous shot from a bunker. I am sorry I cannot remember just where it was, although the shot itself stands out most prominently in my memory. His ball was lying in pretty grass on the steep slope of a large bunker. The bank was most sheer and [illegible] about halfway down.

The green lay across the bunker, and the hole very close to the edge. To raise the ball from the precipitous down slope sufficiently to clear the opposite side of the bunker and at the same time to drop it quickly enough to hold the green, was impossible.

I remember thinking what a mess Walter had got himself into! But apparently he had not, for with a big mashie or some such implement, he played almost a full shot straight into the opposite bank of the bunker. The ball popped neatly onto the green, up near the hole and Hagen holed the putt.

Of course, without some good fortune, the ball might not have finished so near the hole. But it looked at first as though it would need some luck to get on the green. The average man would not have dreamed of playing the shot in that way. The conception was that of a genius.

There is some monotony in golf. For hole after hole the shots may go along smoothly enough, causing very little mental disturbance.

NASH

You will remember Nash as the
STYLE CENTER OF THE SHOW

WITH a great deal of pride, we invite you to attend the display of Nash motor cars at the Motor Show. The Nash showing is a style showing, confirming the fact that Nash is, indeed, a finer mode of motoring.

There is something different about the colors of these fine cars, a richer lustre to their fashionable hues. It is due to the Nash deep-lustre process, which imparts depth and quality to color tones.

The upholsteries are exquisite. Looms, long famous for quality, weave them for Nash. America's fine old walnut trees yield their treasure and lend their design to the knurled and straight grain walnut and walnut finish paneling so liberally used to enhance Nash interior beauty. The graceful Colonial patterns of Nash interiorware reflect the influence of early American silversmiths.

Every detail is correct in style, superb in quality. At the Nash exhibit you'll find inlaid walnut steering wheels—big in-built custom trunks—form-fitted seats, deep tufted as in the most expensive custom cars—side carried spare wheels and tires—an ensemble of beauty and style that is winning the warmest admiration from the crowds attending the Show.

Long after the Motor Show is past, you'll remember Nash as the center of Motor Show style!

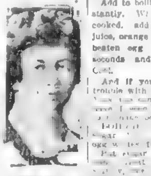
Martha Lee Tells of Cake Lesson

Martha Lee Radio Chat as broadcast from Station WLOE.



Martha Lee

CROWDED to capacity—with even the washing machines used for standing room only—was the Martha Lee Kitchen during the cake lesson given by [illegible] [illegible] of the [illegible].

Miss Ca[illegible] demonstrated the many kinds of delicious cakes that can be made from two simple foundation cake recipes.

First, white cake, made [illegible]

WHITE CAKE—2 tbsps. butter, 4 tbsps. shortening, 1 tsp. vanilla, 1 c. sugar, 1 c. milk, 4 tsps. baking powder, 1-3 tsp. salt, 2¼ c. pastry flour (after sifting), 4 egg whites (beaten until stiff but [illegible]).

Cream butter and shortening, add sugar slowly and cream mixture until light and fluffy. [illegible] baking powder and flour [illegible]. Add to creamed mixture [illegible] flour, and alternate [illegible] has been added. Add flavoring and fold in egg whites. [illegible] greased tins. Bake at 3.5 degrees F. for [illegible] minutes.

This white cake can be used as a layer cake, a [illegible] or as an upside[illegible] dessert. [illegible] this delicious vanilla cream filling.

VANILLA CREAM FILLING—2 cups milk, [illegible] ½ c. [illegible] 2 [illegible] ⅛ tsp. [illegible].

[illegible] Measure dry ingredients and [illegible]. Add to [illegible] milk, stirring [illegible]. When cornstarch [illegible] cooked, add beaten egg yolks and flavoring. Set aside to cool.

Or [illegible] equally delicious orange cream filling:

ORANGE CREAM FILLING—1 c. water, ½ c. sugar, 1½ tbsp. cornstarch, pinch salt, 1 tbsp. lemon juice, ½ tbsp. orange [illegible] orange rind, grated, 1 tbsp. butter, 2 egg yolks.

Heat water to boiling point. Measure dry ingredients and blend well.

Add to boiling water, stirring constantly. When cornstarch is well cooked, add lemon and orange juice, orange rind and butter. Then beaten egg yolks. Cook for few seconds and remove from fire. Cool.

And if you have ever had any trouble with boiled frosting, do try [illegible]

BOILED FROSTING—One c. sugar [illegible] salt, 2 egg whites, flavoring.

Put sugar and water in saucepan [illegible] stirring [illegible] to boil [illegible] dissolved. Start to beat egg whites when thermometer registers [illegible] degrees F., beat until very stiff. When thermometer registers [illegible]25 degrees remove from stove and pour slowly into beaten egg whites, beating all the time. Add flavoring. Continue beating until frosting holds its shape.

STRAWBERRY FROSTING—One egg yolk, ¾ [illegible] strawberries, 3 c. confectioner's sugar, 1 tbsp. butter.

Cream butter and egg yolk, add small amount of sugar, then add strawberries. Add confectioner's sugar [illegible] consistency to spread.

ORANGE FROSTING—Use the same ingredients as for strawberry frosting with the exception of fruit. Use [illegible] orange juice, [illegible] grated orange rind.

[illegible] same as for strawberry frosting.

[illegible] I [illegible] have for you [illegible] plain cake [illegible] frosting [illegible] filling, Washington pie, strawberry meringue cake and Austrian coffee cake.

[illegible] I only have room to [illegible]

[illegible] DAINTY—[illegible]

[illegible] butter. Spread on [illegible] greased tin. Then [illegible] on top of [illegible]. Put [illegible] oven and [illegible] sugar are melted and [illegible]. [illegible] pan so that pineapples are on top.

Faithfully yours,

MARTHA LEE.

Dr. Reed on Temperature Tests

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

THE great trouble about maintaining proper ventilation has been, and is, accurately to determine when it is and when it is not efficient. We have no difficulty in testing [illegible] the temperature and the humidity of houses, apartments, Pullman cars and other public vehicles. We test the temperature by the ordinary thermometer—in this country, [illegible] the [illegible] thermometer instead of by the [illegible] more simple and logical [illegible] instrument. We test the humidity by the hydrometer. All these instruments and their findings are important, but they do not test ventilation. Now, however, we have what is called a kata-thermometer, which is designed to fill precisely this want. It is so new that I have not yet seen it, but it has been used by Professor Leonard Hill, whose report shows its demonstrated value and points to its still greater usefulness.

The ordinary thermometer fails as a test of ventilation, for it only shows the average effect of the temperature of the surrounding atmosphere upon itself. It cannot measure the results on the sensitive mucous linings of the respiratory passages, for, unlike the human body, it does not produce heat. If a fan is set to blow upon a thermometer in a room at 65 degrees Fahr., the level of the thermometer reading does not change. The body, however, is very effectually cooled by a fan in such a room. A special thermometer, called the "kata" thermometer, has been invented to measure these things. It can be used dry or covered with a wet muslin net. The "wet bulb" may be compared with the sweating human skin. The "kata" does not actually measure the cooling effect of the air on the body, for it is too small to compare accurately with the large expanse of skin on a man, but it serves as a valuable indicator of comfortable and invigorating conditions.

In rooms kept fresh and warm enough for sedentary work the cooling powers are [illegible] to be about 6 dry and 18 wet on the kata. In stuffy rooms the figures might be 4 and 14 [illegible]. In the cool fresh [illegible] readings [illegible] for instance, 10 and 25. Out of doors where the wind blows, the kata on a genial [illegible] day would register 20 in a cool breeze, in a cold winter wind it would go up to 40. It has been found that a cooling power of the dry kata of 14 or over is required to increase the heat production of a person at rest in ordinary clothing. If the cooling power is less than this the body compensates by stopping heat loss, through closing down the small blood vessels of the skin. As a very large part of the energy of the food is spent in maintaining body heat, it is important to have an adequate cooling power to keep the "fire of life" burning well, just as a "good draught" is needed to maintain a good coal fire.

Correct Manners Explained

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Your delightful column has very often settled a great many problems for me pertaining to good manners. May I please ask a few questions so that I may not be ignorant of what is proper?

(1) What is the correct way to eat a club sandwich? Quite often I have seen an individual eating one by using his fingers. Mother has taught me that whatever food is carried to the mouth should not be touched. Will you please answer this perplexing inquiry?

(2) Is it considered a habit of ill breeding for one to [illegible] her nose in public or to chew gum?

(3) What is your opinion of my choice of stationery and style of writing? Please comment on it, for I do want to do what is right.

Thank you ever so much. I love your column. JUST FIFTEEN.

WHAT an especially delightful young lady you must be! I wish I could tell you how proud and [illegible] you make me with your letter. If every [illegible] could write such a letter at 15 years of age, and [illegible] with [illegible] perfect ideas of table manners, I am afraid that there would not be use for an etiquette column!

(1) I [illegible] a story that I am sure [illegible] your mother would enjoy. Some wag has said that when Ward McAllister died (Ward McAllister was the punctilious gentleman who gave the name of "New York's Four Hundred" to those [illegible] society in his day), his last words were: "If possible use a fork."

And that is an excellent rule for eating. All moist foods should be eaten with a fork or a knife and fork. And club sandwiches are certainly moist foods! There is a small size knife and fork (the size just larger than a child's knife and fork), called a "tea" knife and fork, that is perfect for use when we are eating sandwiches.

Of course, we can't always use a fork. For instance corn on the cob is usually held in the fingers, in spite of the contraptions that have been devised to reduce the awkwardness of eating this delectable food. And artichokes, too, must be eaten in the fingers. But most foods can be eaten with a fork and we should incline to choose this neater and more civilized way of eating.

(2) Yes.

(3) I like your letter paper very much. Letter paper, by the way, is a better word than "stationery," since the latter word includes pen, pencils, erasers, and so forth. I like white, conventional writing paper, and the size you choose is in excellent proportion for your unusually large handwriting. I think that, if I were you, I would try to reduce the size of the handwriting. The letters are so perfectly formed that the page has the appearance of being engraved. And the writing is full of fine, upstanding character.

Don't use any abreviations in the heading—write out the name of the month.

Advice to Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX,

Will you please solve the following problem for me?

We are two twenty-two years old and are in love with each other. I feel certain the only thing that is keeping back the proposal is the fact that he is not earning a good enough salary. I have suggested that if we should marry now, I could keep my position, which is a good one, for a while. He does not [illegible] but simply says, "[illegible], Honey, if I were only making between $50 and $60 a week we'd be on Easy Street."

I love him and am most anxious to [illegible] and have a home of our own. But, of course, I don't want to suggest it—in fact, I never even [illegible] to the subject. With [illegible] my salary we [illegible] along beautifully, I think.

Should I be satisfied to wait? Everything seems so hopeless. There is such a distance between us I can only see him Wednesdays and Sundays. The other five nights I have nothing to do except wish he were here. He has often told me the same thing. I will be most grateful for any advice you may give.

"TROUBLED."

WHAT does your friend do with himself the other five nights? Is he studying at night school, earnestly preparing himself to earn a better salary in a reasonable time? If so, [illegible] be just a little selfish to expect you to save all your time and all your attention and affection for him while he refuses to marry on your terms and cannot marry under the circumstances he [illegible] prefers?

By all means keep him for a friend, my dear, but go out also with other friends and give him the same privilege. One of those friends may prove to be a young man eager to marry and settle down [illegible] some time. [illegible] also will be able to win [illegible] interest and love and make you very happy as his wife.

Love takes only a LITTLE Space. But marriage WITHOUT Love requires a lot of ROOM, and space is Essential, for aggravating
Couples constantly NEED it
To put between them in Order to make life
BEARABLE. Surely
The reason for so many
DIVORCES must be too much
TIME spent in too little SPACE. It seems people are Always rushing OUT of
Their homes to look for HAPPINESS, and then
Rushing back to see if
They left it BEHIND.
HOME of course, is the most LOGICAL place to look for Happiness, but how can
It be found there if
It was never INSTALLED?

A Three-Minute Journey

By TEMPLE MANNING.

THE most important, and most extravagantly celebrated holiday of the Christian world, is Christmas.

At that time, much money is donated to reputable organizations which, in turn, disperse it to carefully investigated and worthy cases. However, in Persia, the New Year is the important holiday. And the Persians spend, not one day, but one solid month, in celebrating the advent of the new year.

And it is a veritable golden month to the dervishes and professional beggars that infest the country. Ordinarily, the begging dervish wends his way, piously and with dignity stopping charitably appearing people and offering a flower or a lemon in return for largess.

But during the month of the New Year matters change. The beggar chooses with rare discrimination a likely subject, a man whom he believes to be both wealthy and charitably inclined. Then he camps in front of his doorstep.

And I use the word camps advisedly, for that is exactly what he does. He settles down surrounded by his household goods, and his garden, or a [illegible] decorated with flowers, pebbles and beads. A wooden stick, studded with spikes, and a leopard-skin rug, the emblems of his trade are near at hand.

All day long, he sits before his tent and when the owner of the house appears he screams at him, "Hakk, Ya Hakk," which, translated means "Oh, Truth, Oh, God!" If the man does not prove as generous as he had judged, the dervish may become impatient, and blow loudly on his horn, all day and all night, until merely for peace the persecuted rich man will pay generously to get rid of the unholy nuisance.

Fired...

because he was always tired

IN EVERY walk of life you'll meet the "Drowsy Bills" . . . men and women who are losing out because they are forever tired. Young people they often are, in age—but old in energy. They try hard enough—but they are serving constipation too. The dread disease that can rob the strongest body of strength. That kills initiative. Wrecks health. That often handicaps with lasting disease.

And isn't it a pity when a simple, healthful cereal could bring relief all the while? Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation promptly and safely. More—to prevent it from the start.

Nothing less than "ALL-BRAN" is 100% effective

Bulk or roughage relieves constipation naturally. ALL-BRAN furnishes healthful bulk in generous quantity because it is 100% bran. This bulk absorbs moisture and distributes it through the digestive system. Gently distending the intestines—exercising them—sweeping out wastes and poisons. In a part-bran product the quantity of bulk is seldom sufficient to completely perform this work. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. Because it is 100% bran and accomplishes complete 100% results.

Different from unnatural pills

ALL-BRAN works as nature works. How much better than habit-forming drugs and laxatives whose dose must be constantly increased to remain effective—and which sometimes injure the system.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is an inviting, healthful cereal to eat with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Sprinkle it into soups too. Use it in cooking—recipes on package. Mix it with other cereals. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal.

For health's sake, be sure you get genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Don't take chances with part-bran substitutes. At best, they can be but partially effective. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, cafeterias. On diners. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Guaranteed!
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

A Story of Mad Moonlight Kisses and a Wonderful Young Girl

CHAPTER 39

STEPHANIE, perched on the sofa in the little stateroom, pulled a snug hat over her dark, ruddy hair. Her hands trembled excitedly. "Almost in, aren't we? I suppose there'll be a vast crowd to meet us."

"Oh, you do, do you? The Mayor and the Council and a band?"

Stephanie's short upper lip quirked merrily: "Why not? With all that retinue of yours? They'll be there, won't they, Jerry—all your men? What do men say when they write pages and pages like that?"

"Like what?"

"Oh, those fat letters in the long spidery scrawl. You got one every day. Were those from Heine? And the one that looked printed came from Saxon? At least those two will be there, won't they?"

"No. They don't know when we're arriving. No one will be there."

Jerry turned, her heart knocking hotly, and gave a last hasty survey to her face. It was pale—with an intense burning pallor. "Why do I expect him?" she thought nervously. "When I didn't even tell him the train? That's all right. He knows we're coming. He could find out from Sylvia—"

Stephanie gave a large, absent sigh: "Then I'll have to wait, I suppose. I'm dying to see you in action, Jerry. I'm going to copy all your tricks and make myself frightfully fascinating. Do you know I've never received an amatory epistle in my life? And I'm dying to!"

Jerry glanced into Stephanie's flushed, glowing eyes and thought with a pang: "Waiting for love. Stephanie too. Defenseless before it like all the fool women in the world. He won't come—of course!"

She stacked the suitcases. "You wait, Stephanie. I'll get the red caps. We're in."

A knocking. A man's voice.

Jerry's heart bounded. But the next her arms were about Robert [illegible] and she was saying with a little sob: "Oh, it's you—only you. You funny old love with your long [illegible] in the self-same spot. You're just in time."

"To carry me," interrupted Stephanie with her gallant and friendly naivete. "How do you do, Robert? You see, I knew there'd be a borrowed lover to carry me around till I've time to acquire several of my own. It's awfully nice in you."

Robert laughed and lifted [illegible] Stephanie with a great gentleness.

There passed between him and Marza a long deep look of understanding. Marza's eyes lighted. Robert's humble and eager as a boy's—always when he looked at Marza.

"She's told him," thought Jerry. "As if that would matter to a love like his!"

She went out of the South Station before them. But she wouldn't look around, pretending even to herself that she wasn't seeking him—nor even remotely expecting him. She walked nervously—uninterruptedly—to the taxi.

The whole house was filled with flowers. Inga and Sylvia had dinner ready.

Even Basil North Sent a Great Basket of Flowers

Stephanie wild with excitement and delight kept ordering: "Push me over there—the view—now to the [illegible]. Oh, stop for a chat with Inga. I know you, with the Kewpie face and the red hair . . .

"Oh, and you're Sylvia with your eyebrows coming together and awfully good—the last surviving good girl. I know everything.

In a loud aside to Jerry: "Read the notes, why don't you! Who in heaven sent all the flowers? Your men? Which from Saxon? Oh, quick—how can you be so stolid about it?

The gardenias were from Heine. Chrysanthemums from Bud Malone. Crimson roses from Hugh Hammond, the Englishman whom Jerry greatly liked—he who had protested so indignantly against the tubbing of [illegible].

Even Basil North sent flowers—a great basket of asters and heather.

None from Saxon. The contrast was too much. Jerry kept running to the kitchen against protests from Sylvia. "You're the rudest person I ever met!"

Jerry made a pretense of searching for catsup. She stood in the pantry and thought furiously: "I should care! I'll be dammed if I care."

She went upstairs with Inga. They had taken the top rooms.

Sylvia got the prize at the last exhibit—just heard the beginning of the week. She's landed an order to do a portrait for Mary Eunice Pennings on the strength of it. Saxon swung it. He seems to have the dame hypnotized, and she's coming here to sit for it. You have a chance to appraise your successor."

"Is she really my successor, Inga? Is it quite serious?

"On her side—yes. He was best man at Phil's wedding. You didn't know that, did you? A surprise to everyone. Mary Eunice, only divorced once, was maid of honor. It was a magnificent party. Even Sylvia got an edge so you can feature the rest of us.

"Mary Eunice wept on my shoulder. She gets sentimental in her cups. It would seem she asked me to inquire of Saxon the state of his feelings.

"With a world full of Ora Pringles and Mary Pennings, she fancies that a man still thinks of marriage!

"Odd, isn't it, the way women do? Even the ones who are making it unnecessary."

"Well—he's safe for two weeks or more till he finishes this job in Springfield."

"Is he in Springfield now?"

"Yes—just went down to look over the site for a million-dollar theater Paul is to build. Saxon is handling this job—or going to when they get it."

Jerry walked about the porch picking up unfinished sketches. This helped a little. He wasn't here when the letter telling of her homecoming arrived.

Saturday came a special delivery letter. "Awfully sorry I missed that letter, Jerry dear. I could have sent a wire, anyway. Hope you didn't think harsh things to make my score even lower than I know it is.

"I've missed you much more than you think. Have you come home changed at all, I wonder? I was surprised and sorry to hear that you've taken that job. It's not what you want, is it?

"But perhaps you can make something big out of it and you may have time to keep on with your other sketching.

"I'm very eager to see the little cousin. If she's as good as you say, there's a treat in store for someone. I hope they'll have sense enough to appreciate it before it's too late.

Gives Your Hair Unusual Beauty

The attractiveness of even the most beautiful women depends upon the loveliness of their hair.

Fortunately, beautiful hair is now easily obtained. It is simply a matter of shampooing.

Proper shampooing makes the hair soft and silky. It brings out all the real life and lustre, all the natural wave and color, and leaves it fresh looking, glossy and bright.

While your hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, it cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, and makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why discriminating women everywhere now use Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. This clear, pure and entirely greaseless product brings out all the real beauty of the hair and cannot possibly injure.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

It leaves the hair soft, silky, easy to manage and makes it sparkle with new life, gloss and lustre.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store. A 4-ounce bottle lasts for months.

Corns Lift Off!

Ah! What relief! One touch of "Freezone" stops the pain, then shortly corn lifts off without hurting. Why have corns when you can get "Freezone"? A small bottle is sufficient to remove every kind of corn and foot callus.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young — to do this you must watch your liver and bowels — there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes — pimples — a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent. of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 30c and 60c.

Cuticura Heals Eczema Over Face Scalp And Back

"Eczema broke out in pimples on my forehead and soon spread all over my face, scalp and back. It itched and burned and kept me scratching all the time. Scratching caused very large eruptions which disfigured my face. My hair fell out and was dry and lifeless and my clothing aggravated the breaking out on my back. The trouble lasted about six months.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they gave instant relief. I continued the treatment and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and about three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Lillian Harriman, East Lebanon, Me., July 8, 1927.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum are all you need for all toilet uses. Soap to cleanse, Ointment to soothe, Talcum to powder.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. B, Malden, Mass."

Mothers:

Your babies are too precious to be subjects for any experiment, and it's worse than folly to "try" things on them when you can be sure. Plain, old-fashioned Castoria is making sick, feverish, fretful babies well and happy today just like it has been doing for over fifty years. Physicians recommend it and millions of mothers swear by it. It soothes crying, wakeful babies to sleep quicker than paregoric or any other opiate, and causes no harmful effects. It removes souring material from their little stomachs and intestines quicker than castor oil, and does it without griping or sickening. There's nothing quite like it for colic, constipation, diarrhea, colds, or any of baby's little "upset" spells. Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable. Doctors declare it absolutely harmless to even the very youngest of infants, so you can use it as often as baby needs it. Its taste is delightful. Take a little yourself and see why "children cry for it." Only one thing to watch. Get genuine Castoria—the bottle bearing Fletcher's signature. It is not expensive. "Care and Feeding of Babies," the book worth its weight in gold to every mother and prospective mother, comes with every package.

Final Bid 1 S Played by North

In the next issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i.e., as though all four hands were exposed.

Salient Points of the Bidding

MAJOR TAKE-OUT OF MINOR

Despite his three Aces, South makes an introductory bid of one club because of the weakness of his Spades and Diamonds, North bettering the bid with Spades, South passes, holding normal support in the suit.

Salient Points of the Play

DOUBLE GRAND COUP

Trick 1. East correctly opens his best suit, leading the top card of his intermediate sequence. Declarer does not cover with the Jack, delaying the finesse until later if then found necessary.

Trick 3. West is left with two trumps including the second best, and Declarer with four, a situation calling for the execution of a double Grand Coup, that is, Declarer must ruff with his two superfluous trumps and have Dummy in the lead at Trick 12. Declarer plays accordingly and makes a Grand Slam.

Community Chest to Provide Polo Ponies for Poor

A RECENT survey by Congressman Frisby reveals that there are 50,000,000 people in America who never get a chance to play polo. Many of them are mothers. To alleviate this condition, he has asked the Community Chest to give polo ponies to the needy. The Red Cross will be urged to provide breeches and boots. Above is one of the many helpful illustrations in "Polo for the Masses," a pamphlet which Mr. Frisby has compiled to sell on his easy payment plan.

Here's the Way to Heal Rupture

A Marvelous Self-Home-Treatment That Anyone Can Use on Any Rupture, Large or Small

COSTS NOTHING TO TRY

There is no longer any doubt but what the plan used by Capt. Collings is the only way to completely heal rupture without any operation.

And it costs you nothing to try it.

If you are ruptured, no matter how bad or how long, send your name and address to Capt. W. A. Collings, Inc., 461R Collings Bldg., Watertown, N. Y., and try free the wonderful invention that healed him of the worst two ruptures you ever heard of. He threw away his truss; never had to wear it again. His two large ruptures, that had kept him bedridden for years, were both held naturally by his own muscles without support of any kind. It was a marvelous cure of rupture, and you can have a free trial of his wonderful home treatment by merely sending name and address, no charge whatever. Don't fail to send for this free trial. It is certainly wonderful.

PILES TREATED and a Heal Guaranteed

Any form of Piles (Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding) are dangerous if neglected. Every Druggist sells PAZO OINTMENT with the understanding that money will be refunded if it fails to heal. In tubes with pile pipe, 75c; or in tin box, 60c.

THE BEST JOKE I EVER HEARD

An elderly woman had her hair bobbed and told her husband she did it because if she did, she wouldn't look so much like an old woman.

"And I don't, do I?" she asked triumphantly.

He looked her over carefully and then replied: "No; I don't think you do? You look more like an old man now!"

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

NO matter what kind of man she marries, a woman always has her worries!"

* * *

If she marries a banker she may attain her fondest dream; but she acquires a husband who has more HOLIDAYS in which to hang around the house, under foot, than any other working male, except a poet or an artist.

If she marries a doctor, she may get a prize husband, but she never knows where he is, day or night, or WHOSE pulse he is holding at 2 a. m. or even whether or not he will show up for breakfast.

* * *

If she weds a lawyer she will acquire a brilliant and interesting life-mate; but she is aware that his office is full of "misunderstood women," and that some woman is always "appealing" to him or weeping all over his desk or making him the receptacle of an intriguing "confession." She never knows whom he is "consoling" at any given moment.

If she marries an actor she may get a most fascinating lover. But not only is he never home evenings, he is always surrounded by women. His very job is that of making LOVE to some other woman—and his wife has to sit by and watch him while he does it.

If she marries an army officer, she draws a fascinating and devoted husband. But she never has a home, or a chance to take ROOT anywhere. Just as she gets reconciled to the bad plumbing at one army post, presto, he is ordered off to another, and she has to begin life all over again!

And if she marries a naval officer she gets a peach of a man and a dashing lover. But she is a widow three-quarters of the time, and can visualize a girl in every port, a love-letter in every pocket and a flirtation in every alibi.

It's no use trying to beat the game! Marriage is a large order and the price is standard. The only way to be happy with any husband is to shut your eyes, NOT open your mouth, and have the faith and the love that pass understanding.

* * *

Because the only woman who can be sure of what her husband is doing when he is out of the house in the wee, small hours, is the woman who is married to the MILKMAN!

HABIT A MOST VICIOUS TYRANT

By LUCY LOWELL

REMEMBER the hero of "Gulliver's Travels" and his encounter with the Lilliputians?

He laid himself down for a nap, this hero, and when he awakened found himself bound to the earth by dozens and dozens of almost invisible strings. Thus he was virtually helpless, although those who had made him captive were tiny folk—not one bigger than his little finger.

Those fabled tiny folks—they are like little habits. Some trivial thing; a critical manner of thought, a tendency to hunt for disagreeableness, surly attitude, small discourtesies—all of these are the little habits, each one in itself so inconsequent that it may be crushed and thrown out with no effort at all.

But give them a chance, such little habits and they will sneak up on their victim and bind him fast and tight so he is practically helpless under their tyranny. And, once bound, he will find himself at the mercy of all the remaining members of their tribe, some a great deal more frightful of aspect than those just named.

It is significant that the traveler in the land of the Lilliputians first lay down to sleep before he was bound. So it is always. If one is wide awake, few undesirable things sneak up on him and try to get a foothold inside his mind. It is when he is asleep—off guard—that he is enslaved.

"I've been on the lookout a great while," he tells himself, "and nothing at all has happened. I'll just take it easy and if anything breaks time enough to fix it later."

So he argues to himself. But the trouble is that to fix a thing after it breaks is a very difficult accomplishment indeed. In fact the smart thing is to be so alert that no little habit, however inconsequent, can come near enough to tie even one hard knot in its binding string.

TODAY

300 years ago, 100,000 lost their lives; 200,000 were drowned at Bengal, in India, 50 years ago. Many times in history eruptions of the sea, river floods and similar disasters have taken 100,000 lives and more at a time. This country can congratulate itself upon the fact that the Mississippi flood of last year, destroying hundreds of millions in property, cost only 200 lives. That was, thanks to admirable work done by the Army and Navy, and to prompt, scientific direction by Herbert Hoover, chosen by President Coolidge, in the emergency.

President Lowell, able head of Harvard University, liked some plates, 100 years old, dug up on Harvard territory, and decided to have more like them. The original plates were made by the British Wedgwood pottery, and an order for 12,000 Harvard plates has been placed there.

It is not important, a few thousand dollars. But money given to Harvard is made in America, produced by American workers, and as a general proposition, institutions and individual rich Americans might well give their work to those that have made them rich—the workers of America. If Oxford needed 42,000 new plates, the job would not be sent to the United States.

TRAVEL-TOURS-HOTELS-RESORTS

WILL SAIL AS CABIN LINER

With her sailing from New York on Saturday, April 14, for Queenstown and Liverpool, the White Star liner Adriatic, now on a cruise to the Mediterranean, will make her first appearance as a cabin liner, and will assume the role of the largest vessel engaged in that class of travel.

Always a popular ship with transatlantic travelers, the Adriatic has also been a prime favorite as a cruise ship, and on her winter voyages to the Mediterranean always carried a large number of passengers who made the cruise year after year on this vessel.

In the Atlantic trade the Adriatic hitherto has carried first, second and third-class passengers. Under the new arrangement her first-class quarters will become "cabin" and her unusually attractive second-class accommodation will be devoted to tourist third cabin, which will be operated as a feature of all voyages. She will also carry third-class.

NEW PASSENGER TARIFF FOR NANTASKET LINE

Effective April 18 and thereafter during the spring and summer season, Gen. Mgr. Frederic L. Lane of the Nantasket Beach Steamboat Co. announces a new passenger tariff on coupon book fares.

Coupon books in the past have confused the boat riding public in the number of coupons to be used on a given trip to their destination. This year only one coupon is to be used as passage to or from Pemberton.

This new tariff necessitates only $8.50 for a 50 trip family ticket that may be used at either port and gives the holder of the coupon book the additional privilege of using the same Sundays and holidays as well as week days.

Hungarian Mission

The largest group of Hungarians ever to visit the United States on an official mission arrived on board the White Star liner Olympic to take part in the unveiling of the Kossuth monument in New York today.

HUB-ERIN LINE STARTS APRIL 4

North German Lloyd announces a passenger service direct from Boston to Galway, Boulogne and Bremen sailing from Commonwealth pier beginning April 4.

These sailings are the forerunners of a regular service from Boston for both passenger and freight steamers, according to an announcement by John G. Hall Co., New England general freight agents, North German Lloyd.

The steamers scheduled to sail from Boston and sailing dates are, S. S. Derfflinger, April 4; S. S. Karlsruhe, May 9; S. S. Yorck, July 28; S. S. Seydlitz, August 22.

WINTER CIRCUS TO AID TUBERCULOSIS GROUP

The Boston Tuberculosis Ass'n. has planned a winter circus March 24, in the ballroom of the Elks' Hotel. Proceeds from the circus which is to comprise 12 real circus acts, under the direction of "Moxo" Barker, clown, will go to furnish the new building of Prendergast Preventorium in Mattapan, where Boston's consumptive children are brought back to health.

Arnold F. Rosenberg, member of the council of the Boston Tuberculosis Assn., is serving as chairman of the circus committee.

FURNESS LINE'S NEW SCHEDULE

The Furness Line has announced schedules of sailings for its sister ships, Newfoundland and Nova Scotia, for the summer service between Boston, Halifax, Nova Scotia St. Johns, Newfoundland, and Liverpool, England. These steamers have proved extremely popular since they inaugurated their twice-a-month service on the North Atlantic, and increasingly large numbers of people every year avail themselves of the opportunity to see two new countries on their way to and from Europe.

In addition to its transatlantic service the Furness Line features summer round-trip excursions to Nova Scotia and Newfoundland. These trips of 16-days' duration from Boston allow the traveler a stop-over in Halifax, giving ample time for side trips to the Land of Evangeline and to the beautiful lake country. In Newfoundland accommodations are provided at the new Newfoundland Hotel in St. Johns. From St. Johns excursions may be arranged to all parts of the Avalon Peninsular, especially to the famous fishing district in Placentia.

The summer tours will begin with the sailing of the S. S. Newfoundland on June 5, followed by the S. S. Nova Scotia on June 23. Descriptive booklets and full information may be had from the travel department of this paper, at the company's office at 10 State st., Boston, or any tourist agent.

Via Canal Trip

The Grace liner Santa Luisa is sailing today, March 15, on her 123d voyage to the west coast of South America via the Panama Canal.

Sailing Postponed

Italia - America Shipping Corp., announces that the sailing of the Colombo scheduled for April 2 has been postponed to April 4 at 11 a. m.

"IRISH NIGHT" CONCERT TO BE GIVEN TOMORROW

Because of St. Patrick's Day falling on Saturday this year, the regular "Irish Night" concert, in aid of the building fund of the new Church of the Holy Name, West Roxbury, will take place tomorrow at the Washington-Irving junior high school, Roslindale, with a program of Irish music, singing and dancing.

Rev. William P. McNamara, pastor of the new parish, and his two assistants, Rev. Charles Riley and Rev. Charles Bryson, will be guests.

The comfort of the passenger is the first consideration on these splendid cabin steamers. Each ship is provided with an altar for devotional ceremonies and an experienced Irish Matron to care for the women and children on board.

Radio Dialog

BALFE'S "Bohemian Girl" will be performed by WBET's new light opera ensemble at 9 o'clock tonight. Harold F. Sawyer's orchestra will assist. Well known local radio entertainers will take part.

The Middlebury College Glee Club from the Vermont college were on this afternoon's program at the WJZ studio in New York. This is the glee club which went away with first prize in last year's Symphony Hall contest among New England clubs. It won fourth place in the national contest in New York City. There are 50 singers in the organization, directed by Professors Alfred Larsen and H. G. Owen.

CURTIS D. WILBUR, Secretary of the Navy, will be heard from WJZ at 7 o'clock this evening on "Our Navy Requirements." Before and after his talk there will be music by the U. S. Marine Band broadcast from the Marine barracks at Washington.

Tonight's guest soloist with the Ampico presentation is to be J. Milton Delcamp, one of Ampico's recording artists. He will play the Opera Waltz by Ilgenfritz, and a composition of his own. Frank Munn, tenor, will sing "I Would Like to Have a Girl Like You Like Me." There will also be popular dinner music played by an orchestra and Mr. Delcamp. They will be heard through WBZ.

THE piccolo, bassoon and other humble but necessary instruments of the orchestra will be brought out of their obscurity and starred in tonight's Maxwell Hour broadcast. They will be brought individually before the microphone in a fantastic rendition of "Comin' Thro' the Rye."

Speaking of piccolo recalls the indignation of Fortune Gallo a few days ago when Titta Ruffo, in the course of a law suit, characterized the manager of the San Carlo Opera Company as a "piccolo impressario." Newspaper readers throughout the country assumed that the mighty-voiced baritone was referring to the so-called musical nistrument when he said "piccolo." As a matter of fact, he was speaking perfectly good Italian, the words "piccolo impresario" meaning "little manager." Gallo is a big figure in the musical world, though small of build.

WEEI is lining up with other radio stations in experimental broadcasts of professionally-produced radio drama. Tomorrow afternoon Al Luttringer of the Wollaston Theater Stock Company will present "St. Elmo" at the Houghton & Dutton studio, assisted by members of his company. It is announced that this is the first of a series which will continue through subsequent Friday afternoons.

Out of the mass of Irish and near-Irish music being played and sung this week from every radio studio in the land, one little number stands out as a gem serene and rare. Last night, during the Columbia Phonograph hour, Seamus O'Doherty, tenor, sang "Eileen Aroon" in Gaelic. To one who has heard the language only in odd scraps of dialog or greeting, the melting tones of the singer and the mellow vocables of the song were a delight. One felt that here was the ancient, warm-hearted, romantic aspiration of a race of undiscourageable idealists.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE ☆ ☆ BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN ☆ ☆ BOSTON, MARCH 15, 1928

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON:
1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND:
1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

Goodwin and Reading

ONE Went in Five Days

What looks so much like procrastination on the part of the special committee named by Speaker Hull to inquire into Attorney-General Reading's profitable connection with the Decimo Club may be explained by the fact that all but one of the committeemen are lawyers.

Being lawyers, they have desired first of all to make no mistakes, be sure of their ground. It was thought on Friday that, having agreed upon a prosecutor, the probers MIGHT be about to probe, but not so.

It is, of course, up to Speaker Hull to say whether his committee was appointed to take a nap or seriously and immediately set about doing the job the people of Massachusetts want done, but inevitably the citizen will compare what happened to the late Registrar of Motor Vehicles with what is NOT being done in Reading's case:

GOODWIN

Feb. 27—Registrar appears before Committee on State Administration, on behalf of the Commonwealth Service Association.

Feb. 28—Governor Fuller says he is "reluctant to enter into a controversy with a man who doesn't tell the truth."

Mr. Goodwin quotes the Governor as saying "No one ever crossed me and got away with it."

March 1—Public Works Commissioner says Goodwin must correct his "false, malicious and deliberately misleading statement" or be removed from office.

Commissioner files with the Governor notice of the Registrar's removal.

March 2—Registrar is removed without a hearing, the Executive Council voting its approval, 4-3.

Feb. 14—Attorney-General is accused in the Supreme Court, New York, of accepting a secret fee of $25,000 from the Decimo Club, Inc., which he had at one time investigated.

Feb. 17—Representative Sawyer files order providing for investigation.

Feb. 23—Before the Committee on Rules, Mr. Reading admits getting the $25,000.

Feb. 27—Rules Committee reports the Sawyer order unanimously.

Feb. 28—House unanimously passes resolve providing for Reading's investigation by a committee of nine.

Feb. 29—Missing papers in the Ellsworth cattle fraud case found in the Attorney-General's department.

March 1—Speaker Hull names his committee.

March 2-March 8—?

March 9—Maj. Thomas J. Hammond named as counsel for the committee.

March 13—Committee meets with counsel.

There may be, as has been intimated, a sensible explanation for the slow pace of the Reading committee, one which would thoroughly convince, for example, a company of lawyers.

We would remind the investigators of the existence of that LARGER committee which, having been told of alleged improper conduct on the part of the chief law officer of the Commonwealth, waits for the FACTS.

Contrasting the velocity with which the Registrar of Motor Vehicles was removed from the State House with the dawdling, dilly-dallying manner of the Reading inquiry up to date, the members of this larger committee very naturally ask "WHY?"

Quite Unlike Munsey

But Munsey's Money Bought Him. So He Is Munsey's Picture

ALFONSO D'ESTE, PAINTED BY TITIAN

This is the first painting to be bought with money left by the late Frank A. Munsey to the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City.

It is called the finest portrait the Metropolitan Museum ever bought. Frank Munsey's money thus brings to America a work of art that will be an inspiration to young artists in this country after we pass through the industrial stage and reach, as all nations do, the artistic stage.

Nothing could be more unlike Frank A. Munsey than Alfonso D'Este, the gentleman whose portrait comes to America via the Munsey bank account.

This D'Este, a member of a great family in old Italy,

ANTICIPATION WORSE THAN DEATH

By DR. FRANK CRANE

VICTOR HUGO in his grandiloquent way said: "Nous sommes tous condamnes." We are all condemned criminals.

We are all condemned to death, as Victor Hugo says. We must all walk the plank, sooner or later, or face a firing squad, or die in battle or breathe our last in our beds. Dying is dying whatever be its accompaniment.

And the act of death is probably not so horrible to the actor as it is to the spectators.

Dying is simply lapsing into unconsciousness and the worst pains are felt by those about the victim who realize that they will never see him again. The victim himself probably realizes little or nothing.

Also the anticipation of death is worse than death itself. The certainty that one is to die upon a given date is fiercer torment to the souls of criminals than the passage through them of the electric charge, which occupies but a few seconds.

If we knew that we had to die upon the stroke of a certain hour we should die 100 deaths in anticipation of it.

Shakespeare says:

> "Cowards die many times before their deaths;
> The valiant never taste of death but once.
> Of all the wonders that I yet have heard,
> It seems to me most strange that men should fear;
> Seeing that death, a necessary end,
> Will come when it will come."

That men turn their thoughts to religion when they think death is certain is a testimony to the influence of death upon life and to the superior and immortal qualities of our spiritual natures.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

That low man seeks a little thing to do,
Sees it and does it:
This high man, with a great thing to pursue,
Dies ere he knows it.
—Robert Browning.

Silence is the element in which great things fashion themselves together; that at length they may emerge, full-formed and majestic; into the delight of Life, which they are thenceforth to rule.
—Carlyle.

Mental stains cannot be removed by time, nor washed away by any waters.
—Cicero.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE is an old expression used in Latin countries—"Vaya con Dios"—GO WITH GOD!

So they salute each other in parting. And surely the words must breathe a benediction on their lives.

"GO WITH GOD!"

You cannot have if you say those words truly.

Nor can you feel contempt, or desire false dealing or punishment, for you have invested that other spirit with a great wonder which you must respect.

You have invested him with God.

He who "goes with God" can never be common or contemptible. To our wordly eyes he may seem a weakling, a failure, a rogue or a swinish beast. He may be clad in rags, fouled with filth, sodden with dissipation. He may be on his way to the poorhouse or the scaffold. It does not matter. If he walks with God he is part of an Eternal Mystery.

And somewhere, in his shamed body, beauty burns its small white flame.

If he walks with God—and we all do walk with God.

The richest of us and the poorest—
The proudest and the humblest—
And the best and the worst—

And I suspect that to God we all seem very much the same. All his foolish, small children, stumbling toward the light.

But, however, foolish, ALWAYS HIS—

And always invested with His honor and wonder and glory.

Think of that when you go out into life again.

Whisper to yourself, as you pass each stupid, greedy face—"Go with God!"

Presently you will feel a change stealing over you.

You will feel something going out from you in reverence and tenderness toward these brothers of your flesh.

RESPECT HIM. HE, TOO, "GOES WITH GOD."
ELSIE ROBINSON 3-12

And you will feel something coming into you like a strong, warm wind, blowing through your soul—blowing away the bitter dust of hate and intolerance and suspicion, the rust of fear, the wicked rubbish of pride and self righteousness.

And you, too, will, walk with God.

And share his greatness.

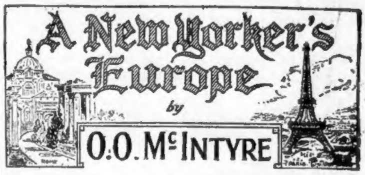
THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

SHE smiles, and all the day grows bright,
Which, until now, seemed drab enough;
The world shows rosy with delight,
Each hour is spun of shining stuff.

She frowns; what dire catastrophe
Afflicts the universe straightway!
Wild tempest reigns on land and sea
And clouded is the orb of day.

The world at large may never know
How storm or calm depend on her,
But lovers all claim it is so,
When love is one's barometer.



A New Yorker's Europe

by

O.O. McINTYRE

ST. MORITZ, March 15—A winter morning view of the Lake of Moritz is perhaps as inspiring with natural beauty as any other spot to be found in Europe. At least great artists have said so. The short fir trees around the edge of the ice mirror lake are chrystalized in clear white beauty.

The cloudless sky is the typically bluish green of aquamarine and suspended beyond snowclad peaks is the sun, which hangs like a great ball of fire, and the shimmering ensemble is bathed in the golden glow. It is like a breath-taking stage scene that suddenly becomes real.

It is the only natural scene I ever beheld that prompted an urge for that dream-awakening pinch we have read so much about. The professional skaters are leaping about like gazelles in early morning practice. Bob sledders with a rush of frosty breath are gliding over the hills.

Horse races—running and trotting—are seasonal events on the ice track of the lake. The turf is of padded snow and as fast and sure as the finest conditioned track in America. Perhaps the only change from American racing is that some of the jockeys have long whiskers.

The ski-jumping on Olympia Leap is a contest of Lindberghian skill and nerve. As are the bobsled races on the Chantarella Run, a funicular skiway. The skiers leaving the snow for their jumps appear to float like graceful birds.

The big hotels in the High Alps have their private artificial ice rinks. The Olympic Winter Games draw the pick of ice skaters from all corners of the world. There are daily ice hockey matches and also contests of a game called curling, similar to hockey. This is played by the older folk.

What we know as a "head cold" is almost unknown to natives of St. Moritz and pulmonary trouble is rare. There is a bloom in every cheek and a sturdy relish for life. The toiling grind of the factory and sweat shop has never touched the Engadine.

AS AN illuminating example of Swiss hotel service, I returned from breakfast this morning to my typewriter to find it freshly cleaned and oiled and a new ribbon inserted. Two pencils on the writing table were newly sharpened and a patented lighter which has not been to a service station for some time had been refilled with gasoline. O, yes, the fried breakfast eggs were moulded in rosebud shapes.

ONE of the expert skate sharpeners here is an American negro from Alabama. He came over as a valet ten years ago and upon reaching St. Moritz decided, as he expressed it, this was "his dish." He speaks four languages and is a contradiction to the general belief the negro prefers only a warm climate.

ST. MORITZ, however, in the summer is quite different from winter. Nearly all snow disappears from the hills and they are verdant. The lakes melt and most of the population departs until the snow flies again. There are strong carbonic acid and iron springs whose waters have the same gagging effect as the whiff of a spoiled egg.

THE Swiss are models of sobriety, honesty, industry and thrift. The domestic triangle is an unknown quantity. If a father is a waiter that is the highest ambition of his son and he goes through all the lesser graduations to reach it.

THREE writers came to St. Moritz two months ago to turn out novels. Not one has made the start. What with one thing and another.

SWISS innkeepers do not say "Goodbye" just "Au Revoir." They are certain you will come back and they are generally right.

TODAY upon departing I gave the porter 25 francs and very gravely he handed back 4 francs. Well, every little bit Alps.

brother of Beatrice D'Este, husband of Lucretia Borgia, would have understood Frank Munsey as little as Munsey would have understood the powerful D'Este.

In Munsey's mind money was a thing to be got, saved and later made useful. Power was a thing to be accumulated and use, if at all, with the greatest caution and discretion.

To D'Este money was a thing to be got, however it could be got, and spent as fast as it came. Power was to be used ruthlessly for any purpose that its author deemed wise.

In heaven, where they both are now, presumably, Frank A. Munsey and Alfonso D'Este meet occasionally, although they wouldn't have very much in common. Munsey would be more apt to talk to Andrew Carnegie and D'Este to Michelangelo, or some of the great popes, friends or relations of his.

But D'Este would be interested when Munsey said to him: "You may not know it, D'Este, but you remember a good portrait that Titian painted of you? You do? Well, my money bought that portrait and sent it to New York. You don't know anything about that city? You would be surprised if you did. Some city it has grown. AND HOW."

It would interest old Titian to know the kind of money that bought his painting, and especially how much was paid for it—more than Titian ever had in his whole lifetime perhaps, although he worked until past ninety, when he was killed by the plague that struck Venice.
